I'm not sure what to do since I'm not that type of person to fight nor do I know how to fight. I'm kind of nervous and not sure what to do

TNF. - November 19, 2015, 2:06 am

If I were you I would go to mommy telling there's a bully after you.

FREEBANDZ. - November 19, 2015, 2:07 am

Stand your ground and fight back. You can't let people stomp all over you your whole life. If people see you're scared, they'll take you as a weak person and take advantage of you. Be a man and fight back if he lays a hand on you. If you aren't touched, then don't do anything. If you feel like you can't beat him, punch him in his fucking throat.

No problem. Don't ever let another human being take advantage of you. Bullies or people claiming they want to fight are usually pussys and can't fight for the life of them. The real ones don't talk. Tell him if hes feeling froggy, leap.

Pretty much this, he wont bother you if he knows you're not going to let him do it, I don't know how to the fight very well myself but I wouldn't let someone pick on me without a fight.

Yeah, and if you happen to get put in a choke hold, bite his arm. Fight fucking dirty bro, who cares. Do what you gotta do to defend yourself. Also if you guys square up like real men, try to stomp on his foot. That shit HURTS. He also will have a leg stuck, which gives you an opportunity to clock him. I've been in enough fights and seen enough fights in my life to give you all kinds of advice lol.

Nah, i'm not a pussy. I fought a guy recently actually rather bigger than me (like 30 years old, grown ass man, i'm 20). I hit him with a right hook (i have long arms, he couldn't reach me), and he slammed me and tried getting me in a choke hold. You think i'm going to let another man choke me to death bud? nope. Bit his arm, he got off me and we stood up and continued to fight like men. He pulled a "pussy" move by slamming, so i pulled 1 right back. Needless to say i didn't have a scratch on my face and we shook hands like men after that and had respect for each other. Funny thing is, it was my old room mate before i got my own place.

This ^^

When I was younger I people push me around, I was a big target for bullying and being mocked in social interactions. It's really interesting how just the littlest bit of courage and assertiveness can take you a long way, a lot of bullies are actually pussies themselves. Try it out.

Would you rather stand your ground and not let someone have power over you with the risk of being a little nervous, or are you gonna let this kid fucking drown your confidence. Dude fuck that shit, survival of the fittest, you've got to have the mentality that NO ONE puts you down, you're the king.

Actually give me this fuckers address, where are you from?

Most schools you'll get in trouble even if he starts it, advice from someone who has actually finished school: don't fight because you think you have to, only fight if you actually need to. It's not worth getting kicked out to "stand your ground" if kid has a psycho mom your ass is gone.

I assumed this "kid" was in high school.

But I don't know of a single school that allows fighting whether it's in self defense or not, I've been to private schools and public schools. (4 in total)

But this guy is 20? And the other guy is 30? What the fuck kind of environment are you in? Grow the fuck up.

To each his own. Only thing i consider pussy is kicking in the nuts. I've seen 2 grown men bite each other though. Not pussy at all. If you're at a point where you feel like you're about to die, you will do anything to get that person off you. Just proves to me you've never been in a real intense fight. I'm not talking about wimpy little kids here, i'm talking 250+ LB body builders.

It's not so much the school as the crazy moms.

But this "kid" is 30 so I don't think that will be an issue, I still can't grasp college "kids" fighting, I go to college in a pretty bad city and no one is a dick out loud.

Untill it's only verbal and doesn't get to you than just ignore(reporting anonimously to the principal is always an obligatory thing to do with all bullies yours and those you just see pickin' up on others), if it goes violent kick or punch in Deez Nutz and run at closest help(teacher, friend) than report agin to teacher/principal.

I had the same situation in Jr. High. I ended up actually fighting the kid and beating the shit out of him after he tried to throw me down a flight of stairs.

I'd recommend doing what I did, just snap as soon as he puts his hands on you.
Unless he's a foot taller than you and is visibly stronger, I say give it to him. Rage can fuel you to do some pretty incredible things.

Don't listen to these Hackforums "trolls", they are self-centered and unable to sympathize or empathize with another human being, as most pubescent individuals are. They will grow out of it.

That being said, also don't listen to this self-defense advice given to you by these compulsive liars. They are likely hardcore anime fans who can no longer distinguish fantasy from reality. Telling you things like "stomp his foot"... lol... what's next? "Just use instantaneous transmission behind him to dodge his attacks, then hit him with a swift 1080 tornado dragon kick. He will be stunned so use your time wisely to charge up a Kamehameha for a stylish finish." Yeah. No. Bullying is a real problem in adolescent years that causes long-term depression, anxiety, and sometimes even leads to suicide. Have some decency please, trolls.

What you really should do is handle it like a real man, not the low-class, immature perception of a man. A real man keeps his emotions completely under control and walks away from a pointless verbal confrontation. He may debate a bit, but he won't stoop down to the bullies level; he'll make logical arguments in the face of insults such as "why are you trying to judge someone you know nothing about?". A real man knows by keeping his own emotions in check, he remains in full control of himself and can decisively handle a situation. He doesn't care what the bully has to say, because he knows and believes what is true and untrue about himself, and someone who doesn't even know him clearly knows much less, if anything.

A real man tries to deescalate physical violence, not escalate it. He knows when it's too late and he must defend himself and/or his loved ones/friends, but he avoids physical confrontation because he understands how pointless it is. A real man understands that bullies are bullies because they are going through hard times and must vent their anger and aggression because they are unaware of other ways to cope. The man doesn't try to make their sorry and lowly lives any worse, because he knows it's impossible to teach someone a lesson by stooping to the level where they already are. Thus, he will not subdue the bully with physical power unless it is necessary (it's necessary when violence is imminent: if he pushes you and then continues to move toward you, etc).

If you think your situation is at the point where you will need to use self-defense, I recommend taking some self-defense courses. Not karate, tae-kwon-do, boxing, or anything of the sort - those arts are all great, but they serve as an addition to self-defense, not a foundation. You need to understand the technical concepts of self-defense that aren't all set-up scenarios and strikes. If you can't take courses there are many famous & reputable self-defense instructors who make educational videos. You can find them with some searching on YouTube. They will be saying the same things I do about self-defense, philosophy and ethics-wise: try to deescalate, don't look for fights, never initiate a fight from a non-physical verbal confrontation, etc. It's better to hear it from professions ?

Best of wishes,
Dtective
