They are high-end sunglasses.. They are made of really nice and high quality materials and the design is very nice and modern.. That's why they cost so much.. When you put them on they make you look really good, they compliment any style..

We are merely suggesting that you could use a better way to present the product you are selling. The way it looks right now is very unappealing and honestly one look and people are gonna look away. No one here is sales thrashing. We are telling you there's something wrong with the presentation.

He is what we call a window-shopper, he only wishes he could afford to have something of such quality as some Ray Bans so he looks and looks but never buys; I literally spent like 25 minutes going every detail of the glasses with him, showing on Skype. I'm not one to flaunt, but I can tell you I'm definately not poor. And it's not sales trashing, I'm giving a review of what you have to offer. Use a MM if you're going to deal with him. This is my last post, I'm done with this convo.

But I didn't do anything to cause you to do this.

I literally showed you the sunglasses on webcam, they were what I advertised were they not? I did everything as I was supposed too.. We had a disagreement on payment and I already had offers so I didn't want to send BOTH to you for no payment at all ecspecially as I had other offers with people willing to pay first or atleast a little bit first to lock there glasses in. You liked what you see'd but the deal didn't work out because you got mad and ran off and came here to trash my threads..

The glasses were good and you know it, so why trash my thread to try and make me look bad? ?
