!-FeatureBug's Speedy Admin Page Finder-!

A light-weight, fast command line tool to find the admin page of any website. Looks weren't important in this development, it's all about performance. This started as a little tool I could use myself, however I decided to modify the code so others could use it.

!-Instructions-!

To use the tool, simply open the folder that contains admin-checker.exe, hold shift and right-click. Select "open command window here".

To run: use the following

Code admin-checker.exe -file=list.txt -target=http://www.example.com/

Ensuring the arguments are set correctly. You may wanna go behind a VPN as well.

target: The link to the website with a trailing slash (e.g. <http://example.com/>)

file: The path to the file containing the line separated list of common admin pages (e.g. c:/admin-checker/list.txt)

!-Example-!

(I forgot to check whether target.com was a real website, whoops!)

The tool will display any pages that don't respond with a 404.

Note that some websites issue a 302 when a page has not been found, redirecting the request to the home page, resulting in a 200 response. This will be fixed in a later version of the tool.

You can use any list of admin pages, so long as it matches the formatting of the list.txt file included with the download.

!-Download-!

Thanks all of you! Just a heads up, I'll be making updates to the tool in the near future. These updates will make the tool more successful and faster.

The list of paths included in the document is here: <http://pastebin.com/F6PmPFaH> if anyone is able to add to it, maintaining the same formatting, that'll also improve the success rate.
