Thread: [\[RESOLVED\] Alone Vampire Situation - REFUNDED](#)

CH405 - November 28, 2015, 1:34 pm

This has all been resolved. Alone Vampire has refunded me an amount that I requested. He handled the situation well and I hope the community can forgive him for the mistakes he made, as I stated in the original thread, I'm sure he never intended to scam, a series of events unfolded that turned this into a bad situation.

I would also like to bid farewell to HackForums and thank the community for their support.

National Security Agency - November 28, 2015, 1:35 pm

I wish you luck. This looks legitimate and I believe OP.

This report looks legitimate. It seems as the project wasn't finished or done to your specifications agreed upon you and Alone Vampire. Why were you closed? I remember you posting about this project, and I was actually looking forward to using it myself.

I haven't read the OP, nor do I intend to. There has been previous staffers who were accused to have scammed users in the past. Please allow time to get both sides of the story. I am sure it is a miscommunication between both sides. Because it does involve a staff member, Omniscient will most likely review it. Do not feel the need to send him a PM as I am sure he will find out, or later get told by Alone Vampire.

And please don't fuck with Alone Vampire or any other staff members. Leave it be, don't harass anyone and get banned or warned for something stupid.

I'd like to hear his side of the story too but I mean so far everything OP provided has been solid. How can you turn a 24hr deadline into 3 months without ANY valid excuses? He just kept putting it off.

You do have to hear both sides of the story but right now you are refusing to even listen to one by not reading him and his evidence. So far the evidence is solid and you would know that if you had read the OP. You cannot just base whatever you say on blind faith in HF, because in the end - people fuck up. That is just life, actually read the OP and come back with an intelligent and thought out response to this issue instead of telling people to wait for Staff response on an issue that is clearly documented and presented. You cannot beat evidence and facts; alone can twist the situation however he wants but in the end unless he can provide as much evidence as the OP then he is guilty, no matter what his status. We also have as much right as you to not even read Alone's response as you refuse to read the OP's, like we also have the right to not read yours; which I wish I hadn't. In not reading your response, they are not heeding your warnings: next time start with, "I have read through the OP's case and it is very compelling; yet I know alone vampire and I am sure that he has some sort of explanation on the subject, even if he doesn't then he has the right to give his side of the issue before this shit becomes a witch hunt".

This better be resolved accordingly. The marketplace, the reputation of the staff members, and the trust between members and the staff would go straight out the window if this is just closed/the user gets banned. This seems 100% valid. EVEN if multi, even if this user has broken a million rules, Alone Wolf or whatever was paid for a service, and he did not complete it. Whether it was with a current member, or a previous member that was closed, it would still be a legitimate scam report as the user did not receive what he paid for.

Every few minutes some one on this site is getting scammed,
I know staff don't get involved but when a STAFF member is the one who is scamming
i think it is time for Higher staff / owner to get involved and stop this scamming lark that seems to have gripped this site.

I was on another forum during the week watching a topic that had started,
And they posters where encouraging another guy to pop over to HF and do some scamming just to raise some money to buy what they where selling.

It seems hf is the place to go to raise some money by scamming, get some neg rep , a deal dispute thread and then it will all go away and we move on.
