It's a tricky one since there are so many options nowadays and I don't want to be boring and say "invest in bitcoin". I would tell you to spend a few weeks thinking of how to revolutionise something online using a website. Think of all the inconveniences that have happened and what caused them, then invest into turning it into a reality. Run it by a few people whom you trust and then if you can "wow" them all, you're onto something.

Don't do it. I made this same mistake but with my parents when I first started out... I had about $3K and spent $1.5k on them at Christmas, it was worth it in the beginning but it sunk in a few weeks later that I'd thrown money into the drain. I wouldn't do this again if I was in that same position, so I assume if you and I have a similar mindset then you shouldn't either; especially when it's a girlfriend which could be temporary and end at any moment.

PayPal Earnings -> BTC -> BTC ATM (cash)

Is that considered money laundering / tax evasion since BTC trading cant be taxed by a country?

<https://www.irs.gov/uac/Newsroom/IRS-Virtual-Currency-Guidance>

Secondly, money laundering is "the concealment of the origins of illegally obtained money, typically by means of transfers involving foreign banks or legitimate businesses." And in buying bitcoins with paypal you are not illegally obtaining money and it wouldnt be considered tax evasion unless you dont pay the taxes at the end of the year, you can 100% spend all earned money before taxes as long as you end up claiming everything and paying it at the end of the year when your taxes are due

Thanks for this thread. Where do you think the top places are to sell/market an infoproduct with Internet Marketers as the target audience? (Aside from warriorforum obv)

Fiverr or HackForums itself. You can also use Facebook, Twitter and YouTube.

I'm afraid I can't give you the best answer as I have no idea what it is you're selling.

Pretty BAD very BAD funds, only 5$ to start with, what do you suggest I start with?

Selling translation service and rviews atm, but don't sell that much.

Boogiie - December 2, 2015, 5:45 am

Do you have any tips on reselling? I want to resell some products but no clue where to start.

Don't think about investing, think about building. With $5, an investment would be almost impossible to ever be worth it, however, let's go back to the start and think how you can build your first $500... So reply to this message with your skill set and I'll see what I can do.

You buy whatever it is you're reselling in bulk at a discounted price and then slightly undercut other sellers. Wording is also key when reselling, you have to word your advertisement right, otherwise it is pointless. For example, let's say that I'm selling iPhones on Amazon...

Quote:iPhone 5S - Factory New - #1 Seller - Cheapest Price

So reply to this message with your skill set and I'll see what I can do. My skills aren't very requested, I can translate Italian-Romanian-English.

I could write, but many requested articles are not on things I'm knowledgeable with.

I started the service you see in my signature here and provide reviews for almost any site.

I thought of reselling, but wouldn't know how to get a good source of possible buyers.

I can do almost any Labour regarding electric/hydraulics.

-But that would be a job, don't get me wrong I would love to work for a company, but Italy's disoccupied rate for the youth is around 40%....sadly almost impossible to find a job.

The things above are things I'm doing for money, but aren't very profitable.

Things I'm doing for passion, but hope to make profit in the future are:

-Writing a Fantasy Book.

-Have YT channel paranormal/creepy Niche.

Open up a local virus removal business. I assume you know how to easily remove viruses, if not, check out some tutorials on the forums, I'm sure there's still some around.

Depends what country you're in. However, in most countries, by getting money in PayPal and then spending it on Bitcoin, that is tax evasion as you bought something with earned money before taxes. Whatever you make in PayPal is supposed to be taxed.

It is also money laundering, hence the 2.5k limit on PayPal.

This is wrong. The IRS first of all is making you pay taxes on bitcoins as it is considered a currency <https://www.irs.gov/uac/Newsroom/IRS-Virtual-Currency-Guidance>

Secondly, money laundering is "the concealment of the origins of illegally obtained money, typically by means of transfers involving foreign banks or legitimate businesses." And in buying bitcoins with paypal you are not illegally obtaining money and it wouldn't be considered tax evasion unless you don't pay the taxes at the end of the year, you can 100% spend all earned money before taxes as long as you end up claiming everything and paying it at the end of the year when your taxes are due

Thank you for correcting me, I have a partner who happens to be a solicitor with a law degree, maybe I should have asked him.

Also there's minimum of amount that can and can't be taxed I'll speak for Italy since I'm familiar with, but everyone should do research on this for the state/country he lives in.

In Italy amount made by freelancing under 50 per day and 500 per month can't be taxed.

Also if you go higher than 5000 per month you must open a TAV number, by law sure, but it also benefits you since you'll basically pay taxes in "bulk" actually saving money than payn' taxes separately.

accountcanberemoved - December 2, 2015, 9:47 am

I'm outside the U.S., thanks anyway. Only mining is taxable here.

In the USA everything is taxable but if you dont make a lot of money you can get a tax refund and actually make more than you are paying in taxes
