Been using this now for a few hours with some people from Sythe! Is awesome man! Great work!

K?i?K - December 4, 2015, 1:13 pm

This concept is really nice, I'm gonna use it for further deals!

All the best dude

Inverion - December 4, 2015, 1:13 pm

I'm the back-end/lead developer of Onu.im and this is indeed anonymous, I have patched a few bugs and it should be okay however if you do find any bugs please message me and I'll fix them as soon as possible. Vouch for this site!

Enjoy chatting at Onu.im!

Cammy - December 4, 2015, 2:37 pm

I have little use for this since I'm not active in the marketplace or anything like that but you should definitely get a sticky or something in there to further promote this product, has great potential

Good luck

c x y k - December 4, 2015, 3:02 pm

Sure is an interesting concept. Helped a bit with xCoder, it's a decent site.

Inverion - December 4, 2015, 3:08 pm

We've had some problems on the "current users" function but it has been fixed and there should not be any more socket restarts. Remember to message me if you find any bugs.

Enjoy chatting!

Edit: Sorry for the restarts, there are issues we need to fix instantly.

Vobe - December 4, 2015, 3:08 pm

Love the idea and concept of it.

Is this open source? How can users be entirely sure this is logless besides your word?

Inverion - December 4, 2015, 3:16 pm

(Dec 4, 2015 04:14 PM)0rang Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Is this open source? How can users be entirely sure this is logless besides your word?

Our chat Javascript is public (view source) however the server script is not, one reason is to protect our code from being stolen.

If I could show users the server script I would but I sadly can't.

Thanks.

Messages are not stored and only broadcasted once, to only those who are in the channel and authorized.

Thanks.

So the message is being sent as plain-text?

So you cannot see current chat rooms that are in session? Why do we have to make accounts to join if its purpose is to be anonymous?

This is anonymous and we can't share other users chat rooms as that would not be anonymous at all. And no, you don't have to make an account at all, you could just register a alias instead.

Thanks.

Edit: We can only see the chatname, banned users and such in the database, no messages, IP's, users online or such.

Thanks.

I have performed an audit on the code and can confirm that it is in fact anonymous and does not log IPs or any other sort of information.

The deal has been done, I've purchased all rights to this website and am now the owner.

I'll leave this thread here on NSA's profile until the sticky expires. I will hire a professional PHP developer to fully review all of the code and consider making it open source.

Correct, however the site has been purchased by Inveno from the original owner (see post). I'm the new developer on the site aswell.

Thanks.

Edit: There is a problem with the physical server and the only thing we didn't have a backup of is the database. We will be starting the site on another server shortly, remember that the database is not the same as before but it will be reverted back once the original server is online. Thanks for understanding.
