Thread: Popular YouTuber that attended my school

Silent Storm™ - December 6, 2015, 5:30 pm

I was looking through my yearbook from last school year and remembered that there was someone at my school that goes by the Alias "nKuch" who's a popular YouTuber that does destiny videos. It got me thinking, has there been any Youtubers at your school that you may have known?

If your interested here is a link to his channel, he's got over 180k subscribers.

I'd gladly give some proof from my yearbook if you guys are interested :)

I went to school with Andrew Bazzi. 82K youtube subs, 1.5 million vine followers. He moved from Michigan to LA I think to do his music career, even though he sounds like shit in real life. He does a lot of editing to his videos but girls love him I guess.

Would be pretty cool to see the picture.

A close mate of mine who I recently had join to HF has 60K subs. People are hating on him already for being a scammer in a game he plays and makes videos on lol.

Lol I know a guy, but he has like 3 subscribers and 20 video views.

He's black and is still trying to make it out the hood with his 144p videos

I won't say exactly where he lives, although I know the general area.
He lives fairly close to me, 10 minutes drive tops.

He had 80k subscribers in the beginning of last year, surprised to see the substantial growth since then.

Jenna Marbles went to the high school in the town about ten minutes from mine. One of my friends went to the same school.

She's currently as 15.6 million subscribers.

Apparently one of the higher up Characters of one of the batman films studied Drama/Performing arts at my school years ago, but this was like, before i was born so we could never get any evidence of it, but it was a massive roumer of our school supported by the Drama department.
