I checked your API giveaway, you're using a regular "PHP DoS udp script" for the API giveaway. Are you sure these servers have IP header modification enabled? If so, can you prove it by giving someone a vouch copy so they can confirm? Also, because they are VPS's, the bandwidth won't be as consistent due to it being shared among other users on the node. Otherwise, good luck with sales.

Got a vouch copy.

Here are some dstats:

Those are the most I could get the VPS to hit.

I had a 1 core CPU and 1GB RAM.

Haven't seen you in the SST section before. To update you most Spoofed VPS server providers are there for about a month or two all claiming in the beginning that they hope to be up for atleast six months. If you feel a 'lack of customers' it's not that your product is bad (not that I vouch for this product) it's typically for this reason. To gain people's assurance, buy your own spot in a datacenter or create your own if you have the necessary funds and sell dedicated servers and KVM partitions and stick around for a bit longer to gain trust, also include setup of preincluded scripts maybe an API setup to go with it as well if you're feeling generous to all the kind scum here. Just my 2 cents OP, glws.
