Nice looking website. Going to use it soon.

phybe? Jr. - December 12, 2015, 6:36 pm

Was chatting with Inveno on this site, awesome so far. Lots of progress since I saw it yesterday :P
Keep it up, I'm looking forward to what comes out of this.

Noisy - December 12, 2015, 8:23 pm

Quite a nice site, would be quite useful.

pmfajohn - December 13, 2015, 12:21 am

Do you have/plan to add a embed feature?

c x y k - December 13, 2015, 12:21 am

I'll make a thread design for this today. I'll also be adding quite a few more features to the site.

Clever idea. Will implement that.

Why would people choose this over Pidgin etc?

We have a verification system in place which allows users to verify that they are speaking to the person on the forum. Eg, a HF user will confirm themselves on Onu and have a tick with their HF UID next to their name.

Sounds good :3

Might try this later

Lambasoft - December 13, 2015, 4:32 pm

Why should we use this instead of more trusted sites?

If anything you could be undercover.

so basically no reason at all.

brian188246 - December 14, 2015, 12:13 am

Not sure why anyone would use this over the HF.IM system.

The site does look very nice though, good to see you got a better coder doing it.

We are considering making our site open source, for one. However, you could say this for anything, many VPN's hosted on here say no logs, and offshore hosting, etc, but you still trust them.

As for the fella saying "no reason at all", well that is far from the truth, I've had many long conversations where I and another user would exchange PMs back and forth for a long time, and since I bought Onu, people have been chatting to me on there. It makes communication where there will be more than 2 messages much faster.

I purchased the entire site project from the original owner. I then had Kondax recode it fully.

brian188246 - December 14, 2015, 11:31 am

Just registered and had a quick play and it's quite a nicely designed P2P chat site.

Very useful, will try to use when discrete is ideal.

I love the idea and see huge potential, although it wasn't how I'd like it to look / function so I had it remade. I bought it because there are no other competitors.

jujuger - December 18, 2015, 12:31 pm

Doesn't https use SSL?

SSL is insecure, i think the BEAST attack makes it weak.

Also if you use TLS, you can launch a CRIME attack, because the way TLS compresses data leaks information.

On the web, you can't be ultra secure. I wouldn't rely on this without more information on how it encrypts the information.

I just used this for a quick offsite something, and i must say i am VERY impressed on how quick i can make a chat and the use of the chat overall.

10/10 will definitely use more.

Also 1 little suggestion, maybe add something like privnote.com so i can stay on 1 site :p, i wanted to send a message but unfortunately the max amount of characters in 1 message was 265 if i'm correct.

Thank you for your kind words! I will be sure to think about implementing such a feature, as for the 256 char limit, that will have to stay until we update to a much bigger server, pretty soon.

You need SSL and forced HTTPS. If you don't want to purchase an SSL cert, LetsEncrypt (<https://letsencrypt.org/>) will let you get one for free (in public beta).
