Where can you get stuff so cheap to sell on so expensive? I've been looking around for places to get things cheap so I can sell them for profit on ebay, has anyone got any decent sites they can tell me about?

Thank you for your time. I really appreciate the help!

No always, I've been digging through sites and the price of the product I'm selling has halved already.

sorry for being arrogant, shitty day lol.

I suggest dhgate and anti virus, maybe not selling on ebay because they dont allow that but sell to family and friends.

dhgate for phone cases as well.

it's alright man, it happens to the best of us. I just found a site that does worldwide shipping so ~I think I've found my perfect site.

Out of interest - may I know which you use?

Out of experience I can say that many Asian suppliers are a pain in the ass. Their prices look good on paper but when it comes to shipping, on time delivery etc. you will face a lot of problems if you don't specify everything immediately and strictly. I also recommend using Escrow payment types and other securities.

Pretty cool site, almost all items are less than any other website!

I do have a few of my own methods I have been wanting to test out, how's your selling record ? What types of products do you usually sell

Sapio - December 15, 2015, 6:03 pm

Alibaba and Aliexpress have very cheap items.

Try looking for some local wholesale places or some online. I have my own private wholesale site that I use to flip stuff. I can get tons of xbox one's etc for cheap $60-180 and can sell it for way more.

How is that possible without the Xbox being faked or used?

Scams and fakes.

Counterfeit clothes, if you're willing to take the risk, I did it for a while but was caught and forced to stop, but in terms of profit lets just say I made more in a week than I would working 9-5 on $15 a hour 5 days a week for a month. Also, I wasn't selling them as real, everyone who bought them was completely aware they were fake, which meant I sold them cheaper than I would've if people thought they were real.

What you're trying to do is a well known way of making money online. You'll have to dig deep to find anything that can be sold for a profit. I used to resell walmart clearance items on amazon and made 5 ish grand over the summer (not much but was something).

Try bstocksupply.com for liquidation but you need a reseller certificate to join (wouldn't be a bad idea to get one anyways if you're serious about doing this)

Alibaba

Aliexpress

Or any other site that gets you a discount for buying bulk, which can be re-sold for cheap. Hence profit.

Nope, these products are returns from bestbuy and the wholesaler is registered and actually legit. When you purchase from there the product may or may not be working. I still am able to make some profit either way.

Ahh. That makes more sense

Aliexpress

DHgate

Tinydeal

It's a lot out there but, most sell the same things
