Thread: The Sad TRUTH behind anime Industry !

ankitkhosya - December 17, 2015, 1:54 pm

hey guys !

Please spare some Time and watch this video about How a few creators are oppressed over their work conditions and such .

Video: [https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=\_K\_UfHnJ2jY]

for those who dont know,

Streaming anime online from those free sites is Illegal , you wont get in trouble but it still is!

I also download and stream anime a lot but i feel a little guilty after watching this video .??? so easily manipulated , dear me??

RainbowHentAi - December 17, 2015, 2:01 pm

Just gonna leave this here

Yes it is ! little by little !

i put a lot of thought into it and i came to conclusion .....

fuck it, I will not stop piracy and continue to stream anime.

though i buy a lot of anime merchandise.?

RainbowHentAi - December 17, 2015, 2:19 pm

As much as I like The Anime Man, I'm gonna go w/ Misty Chronexia on this your choice. hey ....i have been working on my YT anime Channel past 2 weeks - Some artwork as i draw a lot .

you have some video suggestion ? i am literally out of ideas about "What to create a video About"

H??????a X™ - December 17, 2015, 2:56 pm

I don't pay for much online, anime is one of the things I don't. I stream and download all my anime because I could care less about their working conditions and what not, it's still their choice at the end of the day to make anime, etc. Plus in reality, it isn't killing it and if it was, it won't be dead in my life time so I don't really care.

I have a lot of bills and other shit, if I can get something for free then I will.

That's a really sad and pathetic way to look at things.

Cloaked. - December 17, 2015, 4:11 pm

Well, since most of the legal streaming websites don't allow me to watch certain old shows or the new ones right as they air I don't really see a point of supporting them much.

Don't get me wrong, for a few months I kept my subscription active on Crunchyroll but after a while I realized I was actually extremely limited on the things I could watch.

Yes, I know, country laws and all that, tons of things I probably have no idea about but hey, if they don't offer me the things I want the only thing I can do is move on to the free streaming websites.

"Streaming anime online from those free sites is Illegal , you wont get in trouble but it still is!"

I agree but unfortunately it won't stop me from streaming. I'm the biggest hypocrite around for that, as are others who do and think the same.

Regarding the video, that sucks really hard. I can't imagine getting paid a dollar for one frame, even if I was a speedy artist.

Unless you're saying that watching any tv show, movie, etc is pathetic, then I'd have to disagree with you. Why would watching anime be pathetic? If it is something that entertains you, then it's just the same as any other activity, etc, that you like to do.

I like to joke around about anime all the time. A lot of my posts are self-degrading or just hold negative connotations in general, and especially is prevalent when the discussion is anime. It's really out of habit and probably has influence from the general view of weaboos if that makes any sense.

^ Shots fired I agree I want to support the animator's, but there is literally nothing I can do if I had money I would. I literally go broke buying merchandise now that I think about it ?

All I know is this thread made me have a new respect for animator's, and it makes me want to spend even more money on anime

Actually, if you sympathized with the animators, you would not buy the anime. You'd instead try to send funds directly to the animators rather than funding their bosses.

Then again this is a system we aren't aware of, and for all we know, there's a reason why a system like this is in place and we just aren't (culturally?) aware of it.

NAh ! Sending funds directly is like throwing money to beggars , you just make them more dependent and miserable than they already are.

just like World Peace, This have no particular solution, they suffer becoz they let themselves be oppressed.

nobody would if you dont ask for it.

Duyere - December 18, 2015, 2:08 am

I'll leave it to the people who actually have money to support the industry. But even if you support the industry, stuff like AverageAnime#55 who only have fan service won't be making any money besides the initial $1M spent on production. And as a result most anime do not receive a second season and/or continuation because they're too mediocre to the point where absolutely nobody wants to support them.

You can have whatever opinion you desire, but you're saying you download shows because you don't give a shit about other human beings' work conditions. You don't care that people are working at slave wages ten hours a day 6 days a week because it doesn't affect you?

As the devils advocate, let us be fair here, if we stopped to look at our clothes, appliances, and etc what we would see is people in equal or worse situations making them as well. It is the act of exploitation that is wrong, not the act of purchasing or consuming the result of that exploitation.

If an anime is good, then pay for it. If its only so so, then don't. Simple, isn't it?

-Apache- - December 18, 2015, 9:39 pm

So if I were to steal a telephone made in a terrible-condition factory in Turkey, the only part of that that would be wrong is the fact that the phone was made in that factory? Stealing it and saying "I stole it because I don't care about exploited people in a factory because it's their choice to work there" is an okay thing to say?

But of course, we're talking about the anime industry, since this is Anime Adventures.

Your analogy is irrelevant to the logic of what he posted, though. It would make sense if you said something along the lines of:

"So if I were to purchase a telephone made in a terrible condition factory, the only part of it wrong is the fact that the phone was made in that factory." The stealing part is a wrong that wasn't defined in the other person's response, as he was strictly speaking about purchasing from the industry, not pirating.

What he was trying to say is that purchasing from some company that gives its workers a poor working condition is not wrong, but the company is wrong for doing that to their employees.
