

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Question about craigslist method.

brandonmarks090 - December 17, 2015, 7:54 pm

I've been using the craigslist method for quite a while now with no problems, but lately every time I try to make a new ad on craigslist for my ewhore it goes through but then the ad is never actually showing up in the index and eventually it just gets deleted. I've looked around and apparently this is called being "ghosted".

My question is, has this ever happened to anyone else and if so, how long till your posts started actually being shown again? I've tried VPN's and creating a new account and such but my ads still never show up and eventually get deleted.

Bamboozla - December 17, 2015, 11:41 pm

Literally had this exact issue a while back. Can't really give you a specific span of time it lasted but I can tell you it does eventually go away. I stopped ewhoring for around 6 months and now that I'm back it works for me again. You can possibly try clearing cookies/changing browsers etc. Meanwhile, there are plenty other methods you can use :)

brandonmarks090 - December 17, 2015, 11:57 pm

Craigslist is the only method i've ever really been successful with. People always say there are many other methods but I have no idea what they are lol.

Bamboozla - December 18, 2015, 12:06 am

(Dec 18, 2015 12:57 AM)brandonmarks090 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Craigslist is the only method i've ever really been successful with. People always say there are many other methods but I have no idea what they are lol.I'm no pro E-whorer by any means..but there are plenty around here on this section. Think of pretty much any social network site or adult chat sites.

???? - December 18, 2015, 9:06 am

It's hard to get a listing up there in the first place but if you can get enough and you work on it I'm sure you can get some good traffic. It's just not as easy as the rest to stay anonymous about.

Rubicon - December 18, 2015, 10:20 am

I've never really used Craigslist to E-Whore, I stick to KiK and Snapchat. Only thing I can think of is that perhaps you are being ghosted for being to robotic like or too upfront and dirty on your post.

???? - December 18, 2015, 10:51 am

(Dec 18, 2015 11:20 AM)Rubicon Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I've never really used Craigslist to E-Whore, I stick to KiK and Snapchat. Only thing I can think of is that perhaps you are being ghosted for being to robotic like or too upfront and dirty on your post.

This is why you have to use vpn/vps when you ewhore to avoid that hassle.

Brahma™ - December 18, 2015, 10:54 am

(Dec 17, 2015 08:54 PM)brandonmarks090 Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I've been using the craigslist method for quite a while now with no problems, but lately every time I try to make a new ad on craigslist for my ewhore it goes through but then the ad is never actually showing up in the index and eventually it just gets deleted. I've looked around and apparently this is called being "ghosted".

My question is, has this ever happened to anyone else and if so, how long till your posts started actually being shown again? I've tried VPN's and creating a new account and such but my ads still never show up and eventually get deleted.

Probably the best site if you can make it work in your favour. I tried using it many times but all in vain. Never got to get past their verification system. I know many guys who made tonnes of money out of it just by posting there and using vacation reponder on gmail. Easy money...ehh !