well if youre putting that your selling in the description thats probably why. most sites dont allow that

They ban you because you are blatantly saying you are selling nudes which is against some sites rule

Use betternet chrome plugin. You enable it and it changes your IP while you're using the browser so you can shoutout yourself on the sites that banned you.

That's because you are saying that you're selling nudes, which is disallowed on these kind of sites.
You should never mention that you're selling nudes.

Hope this helps.

It's not always about what you are saying. Some people are reporting you because you aren't giving them free nudes.

Any kind of proxy or VPN could help you as well or simply an IP change.

Try just acting all cute an innocent, and when you get your traffic go from there.
When you try and sell on those sites you get banned really quickly.
