Thread: VAC Bans on main?

SIM-2830142 - December 22, 2015, 1:11 am

Hey guys.

So recently, i have seen valve targeting their VAC-bans in high profiles.

<http://www.vac-ban.com/>

So, my main account has items worth around $5k and i cheat on my smurfs, is there a possibility if i get VAC-banned on my main? I have the launcher on a USB-stick and clear my computer with CCleaner before logging to my main.

I think i saw some tutorials how to "avoid" VAC-bans by clearing DNS-cache ect.

For an example, this guy got VAC-banned with a big inventory and he wasn't online for 66 days. (can't find the thread)

So, is there a possibility? What can i do to prevent that? ?

As of the time-being, if you don't fuck up, no.

You should really change what your title is because just reading that makes you look really dumb.

Also you will only get VAC banned if you have the cheat running and you are connected to VAC secured servers. So if you don't have the cheat running or anything while playing on your main it shouldn't trigger a VAC ban.

If you really care about your main and do not want to be banned under any circumstances, you should just dualboot and only cheat on an OS that was never connected to your main.

Have 2 computers one in USA and one in Mexico, whenever you want to cheat go to Mexico computer when you want to go on your main to your American computer. That's the only real way to be safe.

VAC-BAN - December 22, 2015, 1:30 am

We'll get you :>

Please add your main as a friend

1tap - December 22, 2015, 2:21 am

Just restart your pc before you hop into your main.

That's the real way to be safe

You wont get VAC Banned your main account if you clear "Steam Family Share" ohCOUP - December 22, 2015, 7:17 am

theres always a chance

my main trade account got banned and I never cheated on it, I think I might of had the cheat opened in the background while I logged onto my main.

As long as your familyshare is off you're gucci. Also use the bat file to delete all info from steam folders without causing a 7day restriction.

Thanks for the replies, i will gather some information and probably make a tutorial soon.

FINALFLUSH - December 23, 2015, 2:28 pm

dont use mobile auth with the same number for both accounts (due to their ToS it treats both accounts like one)

i managed to fuck my main acc due to patchguard disabler few months ago. but i guess i forgot to reboot
