you can take legal matters into this

Based on where he lives, you can get a lawyer and make a lawsuit against hf to release his ip address and then go to his internet company and present a lawsuit and the internet company will have to release his information. Think this is how it goes, not sure, someone quote and fix me if i'm wrong.

For some reason this doesn't look legit at all.

I've used several sites to calculate the fee, and they all gave me an amount around $435.30.
$173.55 isn't much for a 15k$ transaction as well.

Not taking sides or anything, but paypal does offer lower rates to businesses who transact more than a certain amount of funds per quarter. Also, depending on which method he used to pay, the fee can be taken out of either the buyer or seller`s side of the transaction.

Fee amount is wrong. Paypal takes about 3%? of the transaction so fees should be like 750.00$ not 173.
