Merry Christmas to you as well. Won't say much for myself but I just want to keep improving myself one day at a time. I'm thankful that this year gave me the experiences it did, good and bad. Thankful to still have all my fam and thankful to have gotten myself back on track.

The rest will come

Merry Christmas to you as well!

This year has by far been the best of the years. This year has taught me things that I can never forget, and has surely contributed in making Batman a better citizen :)

I'm thankful for all my friends who helped me through some darn rough times this year. A goal I am setting for next year is completing my first year of University (Diploma in Information Technology) to go onto my Bachelor. :)

Oh, and New Zealand all the way!

Merry Christmas!

Firstly, Merry Christmas to everyone and may god be with you

I am thankful that I woke up another day with all my family members in the same house, this year taught me a lot of stuff and has showed me the bad experience that I need to take care of, this year is actually one of my favourite because I made a huge difference with some IRL Problems and I hope to improve within the next year.

Will be going to church soon because Christmas is in 3 hours and a half in my time-zone, and before you ask why I'm going to church so late, its our tradition, that's how we do it.

I am not wanting any money, just wanting to hit you up since we live in the same country! Sad that you don't get to see your son bruv, I hope the winner deserves it!

Good luck with church - although I don't believe in a deity, sometimes church singing and music can be magical and inspiring.

Merry Christmas mate!

2015 was a bad year for me -

- Father's health.
- Lost my job.
- Mother's illness

And all sort of financial problems!

About goals - Will try to be a High Quality member here in HF! And about real life - my first aim is to take good care of my parents health and find a job ASAP.

Well that sucks to hear about your fathers health - hopefully it's not cancer and if it is, I hope some bright individual connects the dots and finds a cure.

Either way I hope he gets better or lives long enough for you to make him proud.

If you ever want or need to rant/talk about things - I am just a PM away!

I use to own an internet cafe a little while back and before crates came out CSGO was the main game played.

I was obsessed with getting knives to show off and ended up getting banned from trading after the customers computers (13 of them) kept "giving me" the case drops :D If I could I would give you mine.
