Thread: Lost or Stolen Account Policy

Omniscient - December 24, 2015, 10:12 am

I plan to add this to Help Docs. Mainly it's always been policy but it's not actually written up in Help Docs. I'd like to ask if this is clear and precise enough for the community to understand or if there are further statements I need to make.

Quote:Lost or Stolen Account Policy

Any non-upgraded account reported as stolen or lost may be closed permanently by administration. After it's closed as long as there are no Deal Disputes threads, scammer reputations, or Deal Dispute Database entries against the account you may open a new account. The old account will be marked as "reported lost/stolen".

If any account is stolen or lost and then has Deal Disputes threads, scammer reputations, or Deal Dispute Database entries against the account it will be closed and marked as "lost/stolen scammer" and you will not be allowed to return to the community under any condition.

If an upgraded account has 2FA enabled (GAUTH) and is stolen or lost and reported before any Deal Disputes threads, scammer reputations, or Deal Dispute Database entries are placed against the account, the account will be banned as "Possibly stolen, lost, or compromised." Pending an investigation the account may be recovered to the original owner provided enough evidence of the accounts original ownership.

All account reported lost or stolen are subject to a Rep Kill. If you lost your credentials you are irresponsible. If your account was stolen you are not security minded. In either case we're going to RKO your account.

All upgraded accounts now have full access to our Gauth (2-factor authentication) account security feature. It is highly advised you enable it. On the Gauth page are instructions to backup your security key in case of a lost, stole, or reset device. It's vital you have a backup method because we will not guarantee account recovery. Gauth enables you to secure your account and the burden is on you to maintain your own account security.

Account recovery is at the discretion of the Administration and there are no guarantees an account will be recovered.

So it's clear to everyone, HF accounts cannot be shared, transfered, or sold. Any evidence we have that gives us the impression an account is no longer in full possession of the original account owner is subject to being closed.

We reserve the right to close any account for any reason at any time.

SIM-1166170 - December 24, 2015, 10:18 am

It seems clear enough, and explains the different as just lost or lost/labeled as Scammer.

If someone doesn't understand this language they should not be allowed here.

HaxOr? - December 24, 2015, 10:31 am

Could you possibly generate hard codes in case we dont have access to gauth? Would be awesome if we could get few codes so we can reset the gauth ourselves.

Vip?r - December 24, 2015, 10:37 am

Question omni, is providing the info I used for uber upgrade sufficient proof of account ownership? (name, address, order number...)

Red Sand - Sasori - December 24, 2015, 10:41 am

Eh, so if you aren't upgraded and your account is stolen, it's just gone and you can't recover it? Pretty fucked up if you ask me.

Retribute - December 24, 2015, 10:42 am

The policy is clear. Hopefully people actually read it.

Jim Crow - December 24, 2015, 10:42 am

Another reason to upgrade, if you like hf so much support it by upgrading.

Why does omni have to go out of his way to help some random?

Eternal. - December 24, 2015, 10:44 am

I would add the Authy recommendation to it, but it looks good other than that.

Omniscient - December 24, 2015, 10:44 am

Quote:Could you possibly generate hard codes in case we dont have access to gauth?

You can consider the key itself a hard code and that's why we've recommended you write it down.

Quote:Would be awesome if we could get few codes so we can reset the gauth ourselves.

With the key you can go to this website:

<http://gauth.apps.gbraad.nl/>

Then you can quickly get a code and enter your HF account.

Quote:Question omni, is providing the info I used for uber upgrade sufficient proof of account ownership? (name, address, order number...)

That by itself may not be sufficient enough if IP location doesn't match. Especially now that we accept Bitcoin the upgrade information is even less reliable as a means to recovery an account. Each recovery is different and will depend on a number of factors which for the sake of security I won't divulge.

Those randoms are still valuable members of the community. You shouldn't help people only because they give you money.

Quote:Those randoms are still valuable members of the community. You shouldn't help people only because they give you money.

Absolutely agree with you that regular members add value to the community but....not necessarily to the Marketplace. I've rarely created restrictions in non-Marketplace sections that push out non-upgraded members. I believe the exceptions are SRPP and RAT which both do have options based on Prestige to participate.

Quote:I didn't know account recovery was a perk or a "feature".

Account recovery is a cumbersome process. 2FA itself requires resources. I have no incentive to give regular accounts either. I am however considering lowering the price of 3P1C so that it's a viable option for members on a lower budget to at least have extra account security.

I also want to note that accounts lost or stolen are because members are irresponsible. It's not because HF itself is insecure. With the real logic that members are at fault for lost accounts the fact remains that even with 2FA or other security measures they will continue to lose their accounts to tomfoolery and shenanigans.

So my plan going forward is to recognize patterns consistent with a stolen account and create automated responses like alerts to staff, account marking, and even automatic bans.

Redwall - December 24, 2015, 11:09 am

If someone loses their account for dumb reasons, I agree with you one hundred percent.

However if something happened to their PC and they had to wipe and it and they just happen to lose email access to the email attached to their account then they should have a chance at account recovery.

A lot of email service providers have been locking super old accounts. (in Yahoo's case straight up deleting them)

If you lose access to your email account you will still have access to your HF account. You can login to HF as normal and change your email from there. If you lose access to your HF account and your email then refer to the original post. Your email will not help you if your account is stolen as the attacker will likely change the email on file. If you forgot your password to HF and lost access to your email then refer to the original post and see that you are held liable for remembering your account credentials.

I was rep killed about Gauth but not because my account was compromised.

The idea will force people to be more aware of the security of their account if they don't want to be rep killed. I'm sure all these scams and PM's about thier account being hacked is driving Omni up the wall especially with the holidays only around the corner.

Just sucks I had to be an early example and lost all my rep and half was priceless from members that shaped what HF is today and are now retired from HF like iBruteforce, Kn1ght, Kewlhotrod, Kutmustakurt, majordave, etc..

So I recommend everyone to be more security minded and make sure you stay updated on what Omni says here on HF.

I hope the person claiming that the account was stolen gets a small quick check before this actually happens. Imagine a seller with an open dispute. Someone's mad and reports the account stolen. Then what? Checking if the report was sent from a specific IP? I can't imagine there's a lot of details to actually verify this.

Sometimes shit happens and you get hacked, I don't understand in a case where someone has been a member here for years and years, and has also upgraded, should get their account fucked up especially if they supposedly got infected by something on this site. If you spend enough time on the internet you will slip up at one point and buy/download a semi-trustworthy program. Can someone elaborate? Thanks.

Quote:May I ask why It's necessary for the account to be RKO'd or rep killed if it was stolen?

It's done as a punishment. It's also done as a contingency matter just in case the theft was fake.

Quote:Sometimes shit happens and you get hacked

No, sometimes you're not secure and your hacked. You don't accidentally get hacked. You do something stupid to get hacked. Like download something from Skype or trust a link you shouldn't. Or you play around with software you shouldn't be fooling around with. If you want to say "shit happens"....when you get an RKO..."shit happens."

Quote:I don't understand in a case where someone has been a member here for years and years, and has also upgraded

Those are the worst accounts to get stolen because they represent a much higher risk to the community.

I don't believe that. Even if I did you're basically saying chances are you'll get hacked eventually. Fine, chances are you'll eventually get an RKO.

I was freaked out when I read that SPAM db got leaked, I downloaded it and found my email in it, luckily my password was a randomly generated one and not my usual one.

Omniscient - December 30, 2015, 12:53 pm

I think also some users in the SPAM database used the same password for their email accounts. So once the email account is stolen that's another entry into all their other accounts including HF accounts under password resets.

So far some new policies seem to be slowing the problem down and minimizing the damage being caused.

Eventually accounts that are vulnerable begin to vanish.

No, it does not allow trolls to come back. That's offensive you think it would. The policy deals with lost Gauth. It does not allow trolls who get closed accounts to return.

Quote:repfucking for forgetting your login is kind of fucked up. Especially because of gauth; What happens if a user loses their phone and can't use gauth? That's WAY too harsh of a punishment imo

Harsh is when someone loses their Gauth due to IRRESPONSIBILITY and another members gets scammed for a few hundred. It is not only not harsh but it's very appropriate they get an RKO and prevented from doing deals on a site they can't show responsible behavior when it comes to account security.

DO NOT LOSE YOUR GAUTH. That's the policy. And if you do, prepare to have your account

Sorry if this is being too meta, but did you change the word "Repfuck" to "Repkill?"

In an effort to tone down some harsh language and negative energy on the forum I'm altering the term Rep Fuck into a Rep Kill. No more RFs. I want everyone to refer to them as RK's or Rep Kills.

Help Doc is already changed to reflect this.

IRRESPONSIBILITY and another members gets scammed for a few hundred. It is not only not harsh but it's very appropriate they get an RKO and prevented from doing deals on a site they can't show responsible behavior when it comes to account security.

DO NOT LOSE YOUR GAUTH. That's the policy. And if you do, prepare to have your account shredded.

I completely agree with this, account safety is huge on a forums like this one.

"All account reported lost or stolen are subject to a Rep Kill"

So, if your lose your account you might be rf'd?

Shit! I lost my password like 2 months ago.

I THOUGHT it was @PASSword1234 but I guess not.

Nice! I think it will help allot of people because they lose there GAUTH code allot.

PS This scares me "All account reported lost or stolen are subject to a Rep Kill"

Omniscient - February 19, 2016, 4:55 pm

Most of this was added to the help doc.
