I personally use the excuse "I lost my job, need help with money" lol. What excuse do you guys find to be your most successful?

Since it's christmas I've been using the present thing, like, "I really need to buy christmas presents for my family" and shit.

I never really used the whole sad story thing, I used to be straight forward and ask if they want to buy a show or some pics. And then they would typically answer yes or no and i'd block the ones who replied no or ask why not.
