This is definitely not allowed.

Um. I am not even sure where this is in the rules.

It is ethically wrong But i don't think its in the rules.

If you have to question yourself about if something is okay, then it probably isn't.

People have gotten banned for doing fake vouches. Let alone it being morally wrong.

i a m g o n e - December 26, 2015, 3:59 pm

If the idiot pmed you that on hf, show that shit to a admin(not omni yet)

If it is over skype your morally wrong.

bfreakz - December 26, 2015, 4:13 pm

Yes it is as it is essentially a fake vouch. You should report it imo.

CPA Exposé - December 26, 2015, 4:14 pm

It is frowned upon, but I don't think staff take action on this unless in rare circumstances.

Sounds like usual marketplace procedure, sadly.

Vouch copy's are allowed, but it's more like a review copy. Confirm with him that if you accept the vouch copy you will give a 100% honest review, if he's not okay with this than I wouldn't even accept it.

(Dec 26, 2015 05:13 PM)- Sam - Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Considering the majority of the vouches in the marketplace are fake I wouldn't worry about. If he's demanding you post pretending you bought it that goes to prove how crap his product is.

There is no official set rule on this particular issue yet. Just do the right thing and don't lie. This.

Put yourself in the customers shoes, would you want a fake vouch on a product that you're interested in? No.

B4ROT - December 26, 2015, 4:43 pm

Vouch copies are allowed, but by no means are you required to leave a positive review, nor should you be acting like you bought it.

A vouch copy should be strictly for you to give your honest feedback on the user's product or service.

Hello Buddy - December 27, 2015, 1:57 am

Yeah fake vouches are against the rules and morally wrong as well.

bulldogsnake - December 27, 2015, 2:13 am

Its like TRADING. Its not allowed :) LOL

Mr Kewl - December 27, 2015, 8:51 am

A vouch copy is basically a review copy, so you're expected to write a product review if a user asks you to write a biased review that is not okay and refuse it.

Asking people to pretend to buy isn't allowed.

Also people you need to take this in mind, if you're making such kind of trade and leaving a positive review and that member's material is bad/he scams, your vouch/word goes in vain. Don't degrade yourself here.
