Thread: Be honest, are YOU racist?

Auze - December 26, 2015, 8:51 pm

Title pretty much says it all. In my opinion everyone is racist to an extent because everyone tends to stereotype a bit. So for me unfortunately yes I am racist and I think everyone else is as well. But I wanna know what hf thinks.

I agree. Why should we be blamed for what our ancestors did? And its not like they went through what happened in the past to their relatives. its sad how even someone who is like 1/16th aboriginal gets benefits even though they are completely white and even have freckles.

I agree with you 100% but still disagree. There's something weird with some white people (not all). But many. White people have taken so many countries and have a strong nationalistic belief about their country and thinks that immigrants should be grateful.

Like USA, wiped of all 99.99% of all fucking indians and they want immigrants to be thankful to them.

Australia, whities wiped of the aboriginals people and the same.

What fucks up my head the most is South Africa, they come to Africa kill the friendly people and thinks the country is theirs. Like wtf.

I think everyone have the same right in every country, no matter if your ancestors been here for 10000 years or you lived here for 3 days.

Coton Pker - December 26, 2015, 9:08 pm

maaad abbo h8 m8 in this thread O.o

on topic, I'm not racist by the traditional sense of the word "race"... but more of a prejudice based on a multitude of factors.

skin color is not a factor in my prejudice.. as most the people I hate on, I only hear over the phone at work.

also, demographics cross skin color barriers... anyone can be a stand-up guy and anyone can be a piece-of-shit too.

for me, the main factors in my prejudices toward people are attitude, speech, and overall self-conduction.

when someone is physically standing in front of you, it's a skill to be able to "profile" the person relatively accurately based on those main things.. and it works the majority of the time.

Definitely not a racist, however I do laugh at racist jokes because some of them tend to have some truth in them. I think some people may think certain things are racist, even if they aren't though. And not to be racist, but sometimes it seems like some African American people are just waiting to call someone out on being racists when in fact they weren't trying to be racists at all. I'm gonna give you an honest and serious answer.

Typed this on my phone so there will be typos.

I am not racists but I don't like black people and I don't feel safe around them. I'll explain why. A few years ago, I was robbed by 4 black people. I was beaten and stabbed. No joke. I was stabbed in my thigh and my hand. I had an infection that would stop be from using my hand for 2 months.

On the second day of the event, I developed PTSD. I still suffer from PTSD and every time I see a black person, I get anxious and I don't feel safe around them. It doesn't matter if they look like they're from a good family or whatever. I just get scared of them and I find them extremely violent.

This is because I have this set in my mind from the day of the event. I want to think that not every black person is like that, but I can't. I am racist in this matter.

Regards

To be honest

racist isn't to think that Black or White is diff or is the same or better but racism is when you start treating them like they aren't humans with the same rights as you and to live and I really hate these kind of people ,who would say "these people doesn't Contribute to society,we should burn them" like wtf did you do to the society 0_0 , did you invent the Cancer cure by protons 0_0

the fact that you go out to the super market and buy something that big Contribute to society part of the money will go as tax to the gov

part will help the industrial and factories and maybe part of it will go for charity part of it will go to the super market sick kid :D

not to mention everyone is part of the society

Stereotype - a widely held but fixed and oversimplified image or idea of a particular type of person or thing

No I am not racist, I do not believe my race is superior to any other

Ah I understand what you mean but you mentioned prejudice in the definition of racism and prejudice is pre-judgement meaning you formed an opinion on someone before knowing all the facts. So shouldn't stereotyping fall into the category of prejudice? Correct me if I'm wrong.

Yes, but in order for stereotyping to be racist you must believe that whatever race/group you are stereotyping against is automatically inferior because of that stereotype

I live in the UK and generally don't like asians (paki's as they're called over here, brown asians not chinese, korean's etc). I just don't like their culture, they seem selfish, lots of them try act gangsta even though most are skinny as fuck and are responsible for a lot of crime over here.

Don't get me wrong, I've worked with some asian people who are alright but I'd be lying if I said I wasn't slightly racist.

I'm also not attracted to anyone who isn't White/Korean/Japanese/Chinese etc, this isn't something

I can help I'm just not attracted to them.

How racial equality real? All the facts and all physical evidence contradict it.

Racism is a natural and healthy human instinct that every race has. Any race will always want to favor it's own, and ensure it's survival first above all other groups or they will face imminent destruction since space and resources on earth is limited.

That is a nigga. There can be Mexican niggas, White niggas, Asian niggas. Your ethnicity does not determine whether you're a nigga or not. Your mindset and the way you conduct yourself does. Well according to the merriam webster dictionary. Racism is believing that race is the primary determinant. I guess its pretty debatable what the definition is. But so far I don't think I see a problem with the title. But I appreciate your help :) however I will correct myself depending on how many people agree with you.

Every group has it's bad members, but in the end of the day we are all human, so I'm not gonna hate on people just for their beliefs, It's intentions & actions of Individuals I hate on.

A lot of people tend to hate on who their told to hate (i.e. media brainwashing) or who they have never seen a positive side to. I feel sorry for those people, needing to be told what to do all the time in life, relying on other people to make their decisions for them.

The second definition is "racial prejudice OR discrimination" on merriam webster. Negative stereotypes do show that you have a bit of a superiority complex. though your right maybe debatable wasn't the correct word. the google definition: "the belief that all members of each race possess characteristics or abilities specific to that race, especially so as to distinguish it as inferior or superior to another race or races." Especially means singling out so it wouldn't HAVE to be to deem a race inferior or superior.
