Thread: WHY THE FUCK DOES NO ONE USE XMPP

Raijin - December 26, 2015, 10:14 pm

It's literally the most secure chat option for HF deals...
All these skypes getting hacked and scammed from every day...
It's embedded to your goddamn profile for christ sakes
Wtf?

Edit: Here's a great tutorial by a great member.
<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=4547989>

Edit2: You can even verify you're talking to the person in control of the HF account

Ambien - December 26, 2015, 10:27 pm

Idk I like skype I can talk to ppl with voice and shit

Narrate - December 26, 2015, 10:29 pm

yeah, I fucking hate using skype.

unless it's just if I'm talking to friends in a call, only thing it's actually useful for.

Cynical - December 26, 2015, 10:30 pm

You act as though XMPP's can't be jacked.. Which they can.
But, it is definitely more secure than Skype. Especially for HF with HF's XMPP service.

Zoo - December 26, 2015, 10:30 pm

Not going to lie, I don't even know what XMPP is.

Am I retarded? Or is it not just me?

I only know its a chat tool. I didnt even use it.?

Cameron - December 26, 2015, 10:34 pm

If you get scammed by a hacked Skype, it's completely your fault for being lazy and not taking necessary precautions. It literally takes 5 seconds to send a PM confirming a deal or using verifysecret.php
These people will never learn.

It's such a huge bloatware riddled with security holes and three letter agencies.

I just updated the thread with an in depth tutorial.

Cooligan - December 26, 2015, 10:34 pm

Whenever I do make any kind of deal (which is not often) I always use the pm system here on HF, it's the only system that I can legitimately use for reference if I ever get scammed and I can always save the conversation in a text archive.

Pm'ing on HF is just easier and safer.

SIM-1676753 - December 26, 2015, 10:36 pm

I'll refuse to do a deal on Skype.

grady - December 26, 2015, 10:37 pm

I've forgotten to setup my XMPP.

Done that now.

Spooky White - December 26, 2015, 10:37 pm

Or do deals via PM. Even better.

HF PM's are always a good choice.

But sometimes you don't want things logged on site.

Or you want a live chat system that's simple, easy, and quick to use.

Formant - December 26, 2015, 10:43 pm

Personally, I don't like having to open a client to chat. I don't even use Skype. PMs FTW.

I've never even made an account for XMPP, that's how comfortable I am with using HF's pm system.

Actually scratch that, I think I setup an account but then deleted it assuming I'd never use it and I was right.

#Skyline - December 26, 2015, 10:46 pm

I actually prefer to use XMPP.

21st Century Schizoid Man - December 26, 2015, 10:46 pm

PM's

you cant fake HF pm's

You must not do deals that require much back and forth talking.

I get asked for my skype alot and when I turn around and ask for xmpp they don't have one.

I have refused to deal with people on occasion for this reason. It's either PM's or XMPP.

It's a little difficult to set up and there is almost no support.

I've set it up on 2/3 of my computers

The connection problems can be fixed with some help.

By no support do you mean usage by members?

That's what I'm trying to point out and hopefully change.

I'd rather not be associated with the 'hackforums' domain when I use xmpp.

I do not use my hf xmpp account for that reason.

Combine the use of a VPN and the "Off the record" messaging plugin.

Nothing to be associated with or tracked by.

Never didn't know how to use that chat to tell the truth.

Have seen option HF XMPP in the other members profile.

So visited that and created an account, but never haven't learned how to use that chat.

And not planing to use that chat.

I'd rather not play with fire.

Best to be on a different server.

Yes, I require OTR and I port all traffic through cracked internet -> vpn -> socks5

minimalist - December 27, 2015, 4:29 pm

I'm refusing to use XMPP because I can't be bothered to go through all the hoops needed to secure it. VPNs have flaws in security, other proxies do as well. If my XMPP account is hijacked, then people will see the "verified" text and think it's safe to go through with deals with "me". Hackforums PMs are good for my uses.

Magnolia. - December 28, 2015, 2:38 am

As long as you use common sense and send private messages to official seller accounts, there's not much to worry about. It's common knowledge not to deal with a random person who can't prove who they are.

lowpro - December 28, 2015, 10:45 pm

Thanks for the tut, I was going to use it but couldn't find a good resource for setting it up.

Guys understand I'm asking why people use Skype over XMPP.

Not why you should use XMPP over PM's.

HF PM is easier but NOT safer. Especially regarding what type of deal is involved.

What about Tox? I never understood why people refused to switch...

ddol - December 29, 2015, 1:25 am

It's HF we're talking about here. Nothing here actually needs OTR and if deals were made, we'd probably be seeing some more deal disputes here that can't be proven (no logs).

My post was more a response to the other posters on this thread.

XMPP is a lot more secure for communication, and the privacy options are great.

Skype is just easier to use for a lot of people, and people like being able to voice chat. The masses use Skype because there are hundreds of millions of users and it doesn't require much technical knowledge to setup.
