Can you explain more on why this is better than purchasing from DJI, because to be honest, I would feel more comfortable purchasing from a well established company than a new startup.

These are far more powerful, and custom to your liking, sure DJI is more trusted and organized, but they wont offer you 24/7 phone support, they wont offer you free repairs for that amount of time, and their prices are a lot higher.

DJI is better overall, but these are more powerful, and custom built:)

DJI is one of the best drone providers, if not the best. They have a much of service centers and retailers everywhere. Your drones are around the same price as one of theirs..

What makes yours better?

I got a question. The range says 4-7 miles. How exactly does that work?
I'm confused on that.

How much does it cost for you to build the $500 model? Without fpv or anything, looks like it's a $200 kit to me.

Around 400$, all carbon fiber, and the motors, flight controller, and gps system is very expensive

Are all your models this exposed? Cosmetic wise

Dripping - December 30, 2015, 12:39 pm

No. This is not better than a DJI.

Personally own one and for the price I paid, it's perfect (same as second one)

However definitely first one for beginners as DJI doesn't go so cheap

Don't need to touch to know something.

1. Professional? Your drone looks like its made from garbage scrap sorry
2. No GoPro? DJI gives one free.
3. Range? Worse than a DJI?
4. Safety, warranty, repair? At an additional 20-40 bucks DJI gives you one for 1 year.

The pictures I posted are hexacopters, not drones

These are CUSTOM, if the customer wants a camera or a GoPro I'll add it

Range is also custom. DJI flies 1.2miles, that's the 1200$ phantom 3.

Dji is a large company, I used to be a fanboy like you. One day you'll get to fly one and you'll understand how wrong you are

Depending on the package. Don't be such a cunt when you have no clue what you're talking about. A phantom 3 out of the box goes 1.2 miles, and the battery won't last long enough to get there 2S battery for a quadcopter? Oh and what is your frame size ? And what flight board are you using ?

You are obvs stupid if you think that quadcopter with 7.5V will gonna last more than 5-7 mins even with a 250mm frame AND with a camera gimbal

I have to edit the thread, it's supposed to be 11.5v

Depending on what the customer wants, normally I use arducopter boards because they work well with mission planner, and gps is very easy to add.

Custom Drones are always the best, its like building your own computer than buying an HP, Dell etc.

Good luck with sales OP, personally I love drones and I know the difference between both, as its easier to customize and if anything needs an upgrade you can just swap the parts.

before purchasing I would like to know how this is better than a Phantom 3 Professional ( which I currently own).

From the video the hexacopter doesn't appear to be able to film stable.

So if your trying to shoot a movie or a stable video or a picture without any stuttering thats not gonna happen. On a Phantom 3 professional it can correct pilot errors. Not to mention it has a vision positioning system. Does your have that? can it fly indoors?

A phantom 3 professional with a range extension can fly around 5 miles with the battery. How high can your drone fly? Your thread doesn't list many specs this preventing customers like me from purchasing.
