That's the only and unic contest I have seen in years, even participating in some of those, that's the first time I see someone giving away a expensive physical item in contests as far as I know.

If the winner is outside your country you'll be shipping to that person? I mean, worldwide? Edit:
Even if I do not win the first prize, do you ship worldwide?

Thanks for this amazing contest, just to see it I already thought what to do with it ehehe.

I'd advise anyone entering this contest to reconsider doing so, this user will most likely waste your time and even if he does follow through his end of the deal it probably wont be what you expect:

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5143233>

Edit: I wouldn't give my address to someone who has trouble spelling:

Edit2: User doesn't have 2FA enabled either, if you get doxed atleast you'll know why it happened and how.

BooGod - January 31, 2016, 7:06 am

I think you guys should keep the signatures, even if the contest ended the OP can not select you as winner because it only matters your first post in this thread and if you did not change your signature while contest is occurring. I have some concerns about OPs making sure hundred of members not changing their signatures for all that time.
