Thread: How do you report Post-Delete-Bump violations?

Griev?us - December 28, 2015, 12:37 pm

I understand this would fall under marketplace violation but when reporting said violation often staff would oversee it unless it's brought forward that it is indeed a Post-Delete-Bump violation.

Is it best to just PM a staff member while reporting said post or is there any other option that would indicate it's for the violation?

Is it really that big of a deal?

If you get caught you can get rep fucked (aka rep killed) and/or have your sales thread permanently closed.

You can always find someone to vouch for you as a bump lol.

Just like everyone does it, not worth risking a repkill over a Post-Delete-Bump. :D

But, i still think people should just leave it for the staff members to find if anyone's doing it, rather than reporting it.

Of course, but I'm not saying anything related to me or another individual doing it, but rather how to report it without having to annoy staff with a private message every time.

Meh, guess I'll have to do that. Really don't want to be sending PM's and annoying them frequently but thanks..
