Official Group Prism
Recruitment for iOS Developers

General Information

We are currently looking to recruit iOS application developers for the iOS/Android sector of Prism. Whether you make utility apps or games, everybody with knowledge in swift or objective-c is encouraged to apply. Please keep in mind that we need to see something that proves that you know what you're doing, so claiming to have 5 years of experience with nothing to show for it won't get you in. ALL developers are encouraged to apply, but keep in mind that your skills will be tested.

Application Form

Be creative, there is no set form, but we need to know what defines you as an iOS developer. Your application will be judged on content a lot more than creativity, so keep that in mind.

Good luck to all who apply. Recruitment will end when I find who I need.

Firstly i was shocked when i came upon this group, i didn't expect many people to create IOS programmes and games. This is the perfect group for me. I made my first IOS game 3 years ago in collage, it was a simple game called crash cars. It wasn't the best IOS game out there but it motivated me more to create another game. My second game was frog leap, there had been many frog leaps but i wanted to see how advanced i could get it and see how much i learnt, thats when i fell in love with Xcode/swift. Since then I've created many apps such as a BMI Calculator. I would be honoured to be in this group, im not the best creator out there but would love to teach people what i know and learn a lot also. I really hope i get a chance to be in this group as its perfect for me.

Thankyou for letting me apply.

Will Prism be providing tutorials and guides in the future related to the basics of these things?

Absolutely.

I appreciate the interest, but once again please do not PM me unless you have a question about the application process. From now on, all applications submitted via PM will be instantly denied because you can't read the OP.

Tyranus. - January 1, 2016, 6:14 pm
