Thread: [Antediluvian \[UID=2924281\] - Ban Evading / Multi-Accounting / Drama Queen](#)

Color is so that my comments stand out from the evidence

User In Question: <https://hackforums.net/member.php?action=profile&uid=2924281>

Hey, Antediluvian, this is a real community alert, please take note before being a petty drama queen.

First of all, we take a look at this users reputation on the fourth page:

<https://hackforums.net/reputation.php?uid=2924281&page=4>

Oh my! What is that I see?! A -5 reputation from Mr Roger Waters himself?!

Let's take a look at his old profile, shall we?

Spoiler (Click to View)

That's some pretty serious ban evasion, not just your average 20 post account restart.

So now I must ask, why do you insist on creating drama within the community, if you're not the perfect angel yourself? Even reputations on your old profile spoke of you poking your nose into other people's business where it doesn't belong.

It's a shame that you thrive for attention by creating community alerts on other members and unfortunately that is the only way you know how to gain attention.

I expect you to be closed sometime soon, you're a burden to the community and bring no benefits whatsoever and only negativity.

Precisely. He is mad that he got closed. Now, he is trying to show others how he feels. What a sad chap.

Yeah, he appears to shitpost actively, like he did on his old account.

This user is an annoyance to the members of the forum.

It is, and he is the same nuisance as he was on his other account, judging by his posts.

I agree with all of you but I prefer just to ignore him, he tends to get on people's nerves including my nerves by framing me claiming I card through a offsite chat box user script made by a HF Member. But as time goes on people who get on your nerves you should not care about and just move on with your life's, anyways Inveno legit community alert. Members like him don't really last long anyways.
