You could buy it back and sell it again, for old times sake.

I find it funny how you were shit talking my programs earlier in one of my threads and you own one of my old projects now. You should keep that in mind before acting like a fool OP.

You business practices are shit, not you programs.

Only 99% of those are shit.

Your crypter is 6/35. Both my crypters are 0/35. You may want to restate your statement.

Didn't you just say you were the previous owner of this 6/35 crypter? Did you just basically roast your own program.. ???

You clearly have no idea how a crypter works. Detentions come and the owners are suppose to maintain them 100% FUD. The OP clearly doesn't keep it FUD

I'm not actively keeping it FUD if I'm not selling it myself, fuck that noise.

You pick apart my coding. I could pick apart your threads like theirs no tomorrow in marketing, but I am more mature than that. If you were smart you would keep this crypter and sell to every nanocore customer as 3/5 of them would buy it, making profit go through the roof. You would actually make around 65% more off the crypter then you would off the rat as 85% of people buy monthly subscriptions and thats were you make most of your money at. Yes, I have done this and yes I have proof of results.

I don't want to make profit on it, I want to sell it on to somebody else.

That's what differentiates a good product from a well marketed one. Just because you care more about money than product quality doesn't make you smarter, unless you're broke I guess.

Looks excellent. I have seen a few people using this as a theme.

How many people own the source or will it be exclusive? Also, I guess its c#?

Would you refud it and how much or at least show someone on how to quickly?
