

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Im looking to learn teach/learn french in my own time.

Its nice to be nice - January 1, 2016, 10:21 am

Just wondering if anyone has any experience in such ventures and could point me in the area of somewhere good that i could pick up a course. Maybe paid course I don't really care as long as its good.

Elzoriel - January 1, 2016, 10:27 am

Well, I don't know where you can learn French, but if you need any help, I guess I'll be able to help you.

Its nice to be nice - January 1, 2016, 10:34 am

Are you fluent in french? If your willing to help me learn I'm more than happy to accept your help.

Applejuices - January 1, 2016, 10:35 am

You can try using duolingo.com

It is a very good website for learning other languages

Nachfolger - January 1, 2016, 10:35 am

Or you could use rosetta stone, it's legit.

Anything free won't get you anywhere, prove me wrong.

Applejuices - January 1, 2016, 10:45 am

(Jan 1, 2016 11:35 AM)Nachfolger Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Or you could use rosetta stone, it's legit.

Anything free won't get you anywhere, prove me wrong.

Duolingo is a free website and it really helped me a lot with my french epicusername - January 1, 2016, 11:02 am

(Jan 1, 2016 11:21 AM)Its nice to be nice Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Just wondering if anyone has any experience in such ventures and could point me in the area of somewhere good that i could pick up a course. Maybe paid course I don't really care as long as its good.

ta mere est un chien

that says your mom is good cooker

french is really easy just go to bataclan in 1 week time

Elzoriel - January 1, 2016, 11:21 am

(Jan 1, 2016 11:34 AM)Its nice to be nice Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Are you fluent in french? If your willing to help me learn I'm more than happy to accept your help.

Well, French is my native language.