How good are the hacks and how often do people get banned for using them?
Will it be insta-ban?

Hummel - January 6, 2016, 12:58 am

Depends how hard you use them, if you only use minimal things I've heard people using them without issues for months, but it's generally down to the EAC updates that flag you up as using suspicious software.

End of the day, if you're worried about getting banned don't use them is the safest way, but I think AA are the safest out there.

BoylWhite - January 6, 2016, 12:59 am

Prepare to get banned very quickly

FP and AA have some sort of 'war'

Hummel - January 6, 2016, 2:54 am

Yeah ever since Helios and Garry had it out with each other...

Helios however is making Garry a lot of money in the long run though. Was pretty hilarious when AA got a hacker on the update review video live.

_xst - January 6, 2016, 2:18 pm

Whenever you see "Player VAC banned" or "Player EAC banned" message in game chat, you know its another AA user. AA detected big time! all day erry dayyyy!

here is my VAC EAC undetected pCheat for rust. It is superior to anyone else.

And insanely over priced ??

Vespialis - January 7, 2016, 7:35 am

So are there any better providers of the good hacks to rust? I'd like to sub one.

End of the day, it really depends on what you want from the hacks and how long you want to last using them.

Free hacks, you'll be banned within minutes-hours,

Paid, you'll probably last much longer as long as the server isn't modded (you can risk playing modded servers but some use custom anti-hack plugins),

I always recommend Artificial Aiming due to them offering 3 different packages, a location to get cheap replacement rust accounts when inevitably banned by EAC (EAC will get you eventually regardless of what hack you use and how much you pay).

They said HelioS had some type of EAC unban or saftey tutorial?
Is this true? or will we have to buy a new account when banned?

You are only going to lose money with AA.

You buy Rust.

You buy AA.

Your rust account will get banned inside 2 weeks.

What you won? Nothing.

What you lost? Rust account ~20$ & AA ~20$.

HelioS did post up a way to sort out your HWID once they start banning any other accounts you get. It's their way of keeping you off the game.

So yes, there is some sort of tutorial to do that, but again, it's a pain in the ass and you'll lose money if it messes up, it's really not worth doing since Rust is a great game without hacks.

You'll lose money regardless of what hack you buy, nothing bypasses EAC updates, times are changing in the ways hacks are getting detected/banned.

BF series is using FairFight, Rust using EAC, even single player games such as Just Cause 3 isn't even able to be pirated.

Times are changing.

Why don't you try selling it publicly like us?
Nobody else seems to get it done with their cypypasta.

Nobody seems to be willing patching up EAC supported cheats back to a working state after it has been detected.

Hence venting the anger to people who are able to do it?

Or did the bad pay2cheat guy sexually harass you when you were in grade school?

Yet you've tried (tragically) to sell yours multiple times for $200+.

Do us all a favour and go away child.

As far as I'm concerned AA is the best cheat provider and I'm happy to pay for their services on games I don't play religiously. (I don't hack on my main games).

I've suggested to you how to sell yours yet you've failed to even do that. If you're incapable of creating a sales thread, I'm even more doubtful you even have these "hacks" you claim are amazing.

They do it in 3 levels,

Level 1 is $13, which in my opinion is worth it,

Level 3 with the full shebang, is understandably $25, but you're pretty much untouchable with that.

Stella Vermilion - January 11, 2016, 7:30 pm

i'm going to get AA soon, and get 2 rust accounts to do an honest review.
I'll get the 3rd package :)

I don't know if it's expensive...

Sure, some may say it is but seriously... go out for a drink and you waste more money to have fun for one night.

Here you pay less and can have fun over month. ?

If I'm not totally wrong: We didn't change the prices since the beginning so, since 2007.

2x pints = £9

1x AA month subscription = £8

If you think £8 is expensive, go out and get a job, I work and £8 is nothing to me for something I enjoy.

£9 for 2 pints, the fuk do you go drinking?

Manchester city centre, most pubs are £5 tbh.

Unless you hit Spoons, you'll get 2 drinks for £5 on some deals!

Pubs though, £5 for most bottles and pints you realize there are only 2 cheat sites even bothered to try defeat experimental, one which has now given up it seems. Cheaters-Inc and then AA who has a continuous battle with Gary. btw, rust don't cost that much boi and the if you pay $20 for the AA cheat then you're buying the version full of blatant features, which is mostly user related bans. No matter how much these 2 sites try their best, they're always going to be on the radar.

More sites = better, even if they are shit and detected it will give EAC more work to do.

Who knows, maybe there will be another site soon ;)

Watch your language, they ban you for it.

Sammeh - January 28, 2016, 9:02 pm

AA is extremely overpriced, probably because they have no competitors. They have good features and they have live support which is nice but the hacks get detected too easily.

I bought the hacks not too long ago. Used esp and aimbot and got banned within 2 days.

Bought another rust account. Used esp and killed 2 people with aimbot without making it obvious and got banned within the matter of a few hours. When you mention it on the forums you get rude admins who don't help. Mentioned to someone considering buying hacks that I got 2 accounts banned within 3 days on a server without admins and i got a personal message from an admin with an infraction notice.

Cain#9999 - March 10, 2020, 5:01 pm

AA has been down for a long ass time
