

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Cryptsy is it another MTGOX?

??? ??? - January 6, 2016, 5:18 am

Cryptsy is it another MTGOX?, What do you think is going to come out of what is going on. They have suspended trading again and CoinMarketCap De listed them.

Users have been complain about not being able to withdraw there funds now for months.

Imorra - January 6, 2016, 7:52 am

I don't use bitcoins much but I really don't understand why people keep money on online wallets. If you know how to protect your files, an offline one is a lot more safer, not need to trust other people.

??? ??? - January 6, 2016, 8:02 am

I do not know much people who keep there money online but how do you expect one to trade if the money is not in the exchange....If you saving and not spending or trading yes then the money should be offline.

Jesse Pinkman - January 6, 2016, 9:32 am

The short answer is yes. The only safe online wallet that I trust right now is coinbase. Even then, I have a fraction of my assets stored online.

Omniscient - January 6, 2016, 11:59 am

Don't confuse online wallets with crypto currency trading platforms.

Cryptsy is a trading platform. Unfortunately they are probably a target for both criminal hackers and legal action by regulators. It definitely creates a problem. You also have to worry about corruption by employees/owners of the service.

?Enlightened - January 6, 2016, 10:55 pm

Cryptsy is already headed downhill, withdrawals been pending for weeks for most users, some even months. Though, I think there is more to it than just robbery.