I think there should be more task awards such as report 100 posts and get this award by request. Basically as well a request page where you can request fellow awards since it's hard to keep notice to who to give to.

For all them award whores ?

This should probably go in the suggestion forum, but I don't think it's a good idea.

This kind of award would make people report lot of message just to get the award, even when they are necessarily wrong. And 100 reports is not really big. This idea is not really wrong but it have to be think again, to find action that really deserve award.
