Thread: [\[Official\] Fusion Roadmap](#)

Raptor. - January 8, 2016, 12:37 am

I figured that I should outline the developmental future of Fusion as a group.

We already have a thread up searching for graphics such as a userbar. Upon acquiring such graphics, a full sweep of the old AnimeFAN! members and posts will occur, and things such as the handbook will be posted.

At this point, recruitment will go live. I plan on the first wave being accepted roughly 3 days after the thread is posted, at which time an announcement will be made.

I aim for the weekend after the recruitment thread goes live to be the weekend of the first two Fusion tournaments. The first will be a Minecraft PvP tournament on Saturday and the second will be most likely a throwback CS 1.6 tournament, featuring various prizes. We'll also launch a group TeamSpeak channel at this point.

Recruitment will then continue as usual, and then the next weekend will have the next two Fusion tournaments will occur. One will be a completely differently themed Minecraft tournament, and the other is still yet to be determined, with prizes offered for both.

The weekend after this will hopefully culminate in the launch of a group branded and themed Minecraft server built around feedback and suggestions from group members. This same weekend will also mark the first release of a gaming news bulletin posted to the HF public.

Following this, there will be regular Fusion tournaments between team orange and blue, which will be elaborated on and fully explained upon launch.

Hopefully that provides some idea of where Fusion is heading. If you have any queries, feel free to post below and I'll elaborate as needed. Thanks guys and hopefully you're as excited as I am.

Not sure how much interest there would be, however I do have another idea in my head I may use Portal 2 for, but I haven't hashed out the intricacies.

I felt like a throwback tourney would be so much better than CSGO.

Raptor. - January 8, 2016, 12:57 am

Considering the 4th tournament to be a Halo CE throwback to be honest.

What do you mean sorry? As in individual console sectors?

(Jan 8, 2016 07:30 AM)blessthefall Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Yeah. Specific games on a specific platform is the way to go(looking from past failed gaming groups).

Yeah for tournaments it will be, however the actual group itself will accept members from all branches of gaming, be it Xbox, PS4 or PC. Not Wii though, fuck that.

Tyranus. - January 8, 2016, 6:50 am

Will this group be aimed more toward PC gamers, or all gamers?

(Jan 8, 2016 07:50 AM)Tyranus ?? Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Will this group be aimed more toward PC gamers, or all gamers?

All gamers, but the tournaments will probably have more of them occurring on PC than console due to the sheer fact that I'm a PC gamer myself. That's not to say none of them will be via console, far from it.

Sakuto - January 8, 2016, 7:02 am

Are you planing to extend your activity on game like Hearthstone or HotS ?

Raptor - January 8, 2016, 7:11 am

(Jan 8, 2016 08:02 AM)Sakuto Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Are you planing to extend your activity on game like Hearthstone or HotS ?

I've already been asked about Hearthstone via PM, I'm not restricting group activity to the games I've mentioned, a Hearthstone tournament would be quite simple to organise and would most definitely be in the cards even though I've never played a game of it in my life. HotS, I'm not sure how many players we have, but I have no issue supporting any games members would want discussions about/potential group activities around.

In short; Hearthstone for sure, HotS depending on activity.

I'm not locking this group to players of games x, y or z, but rather will have tournaments around x, y and z with general discussion/non-tournaments covering every other topic.

Sakuto - January 8, 2016, 7:13 am

Thanks for the fast answer, and yeah, Hearthstone tournament are not hard to organize and can be really funny.

Thanks for the interest guys, as soon as I get the GFX we're launching.

Raptor. - January 11, 2016, 3:43 am

Okay, so we've shortlisted the first set of applicants. We went with a really high number of acceptances from the initial group - 60 to be exact, 30 for each team. I did this assuming that a bunch of people in it for the UB would go inactive and I'd be forced to cull numbers before long anyway. Now I have to send out 60 PMs and modify the Teams thread within the SF with members' profile links and whatnot, but I'll probably leave that for tomorrow and just PM/accept the people tonight.

The TeamSpeak is fully functional, not sure how populated it'll be at this stage, will post the information thread in the subforum prior to the PM spam.
