Thread: [\[OFFICIAL\] Fusion Official Information](#)

Raptor. - January 9, 2016, 3:18 pm

Fusion is a gaming group that encourages discussion, guides and interaction around all aspects of gaming. Our members not only love to game, they love to game together. Fusion aims to fulfill the much needed spot on Hack Forums of a gaming group that keeps up with its members desires for group activities and interaction.

We also aim to stay transparent in all that we do. We have a roadmap that outlines our future plans, which can be found here.

We also have an upcoming Minecraft server planned that will be open to all Hack Forums members, and we will seek the input of Fusion members in regards to what plugins and spawn they would prefer (e.g. Factions). Stay tuned for updates and news in regards to that, or apply to the group to be a part of the creation of the server.

We will also have a Teamspeak 3 server which will go live as soon as we begin the first wave of recruitment, which will be within three to four days of the recruitment thread being posted. The address will be given to group members, however they may give it to non-group members if they wish. The more the merrier.

One aspect of our group that differs from others of old is that we will have regular tournaments which will feature two teams - team Orange and team Blue. For the most part, members will be allocated to one team or another upon joining Fusion, however we will probably have tournaments in the future which won't require membership to Fusion where teams will be randomly allocated to all applicants.

These tournaments have never been successfully accomplished by previous groups whose interest in promoting inner-group activity dwindled as time went on. We aim to be different, as we are avid gamers ourselves, and don't see tournaments as a chore, but instead see them as an interesting activity ourselves.

Our graphics were designed by #Doge.

Our userbar -

We are comprised of three members at present.

Despite the fact that I actually had high hopes for that team when they had MaKNooN, I completely forgot about their colour scheme. Coincidental, but we have lighter variations of their colours I guess.

There's enough MC accounts you can get for a few cents each that it's probably better for others to source their own, as I don't want to responsible for accounts being taken back to be honest.

Mutes - January 10, 2016, 12:37 am

Reading over the thread I do like the guides and discussion part though.

I'll have to see what it's about more I guess.

Yes, I would assume that your application won't be read until the next wave of recruitment.

Although with the thread being closed, unfortunately you can't make changes to it. Based on Raptors last post on the recruitment thread, he might also be leaving it closed to look over the rest of the applications in the next wave.

Jon Snow. - January 24, 2016, 10:19 am
