Hi, I like these rat because they have the option of connecting through a socks proxy. But, it doesnt run on win8-10 because it launch itself in the win32 folder. If somebody can make them run in temp folder I will pay you.

Why not get vmware install win7 and your done!

It would be way safer and you don't have to store anything Malware on your PC!

To Poison Ivy, I saw a modified version of it, which works on Windows 7/8 yet I don't recommned using it, no need. They're now detected even by Windows Defender which is not a good signal and easy to remove.

google for "poison ivy windows patch"

You're two years too late. Hate to break it to you. Instead of grave digging youd have better luck looking for threads from this year
