Well, you can change fonts, and you can flash a rom on there. It pretty much give you almost full access to your phone.

You might be aware of the term "Rooting". Many times when we search for apps, mobile firmware, etc on Internet, we come across this "Rooting" term. Many people regularly ask me various questions regarding rooting Android mobile phones.

Rooting your phone allows you full access to your phone. You can install file browsers and you can see every file on the system. On some games you can even modify the files to give you coins etc..

Another advantage is that you can flash custom roms like CWM, this can give you access to extra features.
