

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Want to learn how to use LocalBitcoin? It's easier than HF...

Qian - January 13, 2016, 2:12 pm

Quit your whining, please. I can understand if you was an exchanger with ridiculous fees, but no amount of complaining is going to change this, so move on to the next thing.

<https://hackforums.net/showthread.php?tid=5132719>

Fleckens - January 13, 2016, 2:13 pm

Good luck with your ID verification. This is HF.

minimalist - January 13, 2016, 2:14 pm

Here's a few other options:coinbase

kraken

bitstamp

coinsetter

btc-e cryptsy

I've personally dealt with three of the above and they've never fucked me over.

Qian - January 13, 2016, 2:14 pm

(Jan 13, 2016 03:13 PM)Fleckens Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Good luck with your ID verification. This is HF. In that case, use that one service Onu.im with people who you know are legitimate exchangers. Although, I'm not sure if that would be allowed.

officialgxc - January 13, 2016, 2:19 pm

I don't want to be Identified when exchanging currency. The whole point of BTC is anonymity.

NZT - January 13, 2016, 2:23 pm

B, unfortunately it has come to this..

bfreakz - January 13, 2016, 2:29 pm

Or really, just use Bitstamp or BTC-E. Still, the anonymity factor is gone but what can you do.

Qian - January 13, 2016, 2:30 pm

(Jan 13, 2016 03:19 PM)officialgxc Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) I don't want to be Identified when exchanging currency. The whole point of BTC is anonymity.

The anonymity factor is gone whenever you use PayPal to purchase BTC.

Menalix - January 13, 2016, 2:55 pm

I find Virwox easiest and best, it isn't so bad when you first hit their highest account level. I exchange monthly around 5000usd there without problems.

Mochi - January 13, 2016, 2:57 pm

Also try out Virwox. They don't require ID but there is a limit on your first buy where you need to wait atleast 2 days for manual verification.

Wander - January 13, 2016, 3:31 pm

I appreciate your thread OP, thank you.

gongas19 - January 13, 2016, 4:03 pm

Virwox is a scamming company, two times i deposited 200 USD there and my account was closed..
Also you can see that because their customer support never answers lol