Do you need multiple sql users for this? If yes, we can provide you as many as you need.

If you're just talking about the accesses per minute for example, there is no limitation.

No what he means is remote SQL i.e each user will use the app but the app will be connected to a SQL database obviously so depending on your setup you may have remoteSQL blocked like most hosts do.

N1l0c - January 16, 2016, 6:06 am

We can provide that.

Can you sent me a PM i'd like to have the free hosting package please.

WOLGA - January 27, 2016, 4:57 pm

Hey there, I am having a serious issue with your hosting.

I will attempt to explain the situation.

I have attempted to use your hosting for my domain, the.tf

From the email that I received confirming the sign-up, I have pointed my domain to 5.196.178.174
Code PLEASE note that you have to point your domain to 5.196.178.174 !
Afterwards, I ping the domain to track IP, and it works!

After this, I configure my FTP account, and added one.
Then, I uploaded this sample document.

/htdocs/index.html

Code hello

I clear my cache and try the website now, however, I get redirected to this spam site <http://securesignupoffers.net/b/> .

At this point, I am confused, so I try the directly the IP...

It says that it is a different website completely.

Even more confused, I try to use this . . .

Which also does not seem to work.

At that point I have run out of solutions and decided instead to ask for help.

N110c - January 27, 2016, 9:08 pm

All other sites are working. We will take a look at this issue today.

Sorry for this problems.

Kind regards

In case we don't find the problem today, we will set up a new hosting for you on another server.

N110c - January 28, 2016, 11:19 am

From saturday to sunday our domain will redirect to another page with updates from our works. The reason for this is that we're moving to another webpanel, so you can chose if you like to use i-MSCP or the new one.

Existing costumers will not be affected as they are hosted on a different server.

We are closing the applications until monday morning!

N1l0c - February 1, 2016, 7:31 am

The past 3 days were very hard for our team as we had alot to do.

- 1) We updated to a better webpanel (I-MSCP to CWP)
- 2) Updated the forum design
- 3) Implemented live chat system
- 4) We improved our server with Nginx reverse proxy & Apache as a backend
- 5) We improved the site security of all servers
- 6) Set-up SSL on all hosts
- 7) Set-up a client portal for easier ordering
- 8) Set-up our own nameservers and much more!

If you need more power on your free hosting, contact us and we'll see if you really need it.

HF Users,

This is the final notice to all free users to start signing up at <https://wcait.space> . We'll give 2 extra days for all users to signup there so we can keep thier accounts active on the free hosting server.

our movement from the current client system (Whsuite) to our new improved portal (Whmcs) on this link:

<https://wcait.space>

& The Community Support has been moved to:

<https://wcait.space/community>

For the record: We're moving. Means we'll leave some clients behind us because there is no way to migrate those 2 softwares.

So we're encouraging every person have an active hosting account with us to register on the new portal for 2 days from now.

With those requirements:

- 1- You have to register with same username and email you have here.
- 2- Use the same password for better recognition. Otherwise your hosting will be terminated.
- 3- You need to change the nameservers in 24 hours or your account will be automatically cancelled.
- 4- It's the same service for free with the same control panel. No one asks for something else. (its just a prepare action to move)
- 5- All the support will be provided with our new community here WCAIT SUPPORT COMMUNITY.

Hope we made ourselves clear and then we have no responsibility for any data losing. Don't count on that we'll chasing you with mails to follow our news. (Check the forum Regularly).

Thanks and enjoy our services.

Hello,

We're glad to announce that the free service is back again with automatic accept and Cpanel Servers. Sorry for the inconvenience we caused and that was due to a DC problem not ours. You can have your free package now through our site and if your service isn't activated please leave a ticket and we will respond ASAP.

The Server will have some upgrades in the next week, although this will not effect any sites hosted on it. Every customer has only one account allowed, Any more accounts will be terminated.

Please also take a look at our ToS to be on the safe side.

Thanks

Relax. We updated all IPs and everything should run after the domain and NS changes applied. In some contries these changes apply faster, in some they do slower.

However we're back and everything should run as soon as every record was updated.

Engima - June 3, 2016, 11:40 am

Can you PM me the new IP of the cPanel because i would like to do edits before the domain is propagated

N1l0c - June 4, 2016, 12:40 am

That's correct for now.

As we 've just moved the new IPs we had to stop the registration. However your account will be activated ASAP.

It's up! It sounds like you may have had a DNS propagation issue. You're probably still being sent to the old IP address that you had set up previously through nameservers. If you're on Windows, you can go to command prompt and type in:

Code ipconfig /flushdns

However, sometimes ISPs will be delayed in flushing DNS which means you may still connect to your old site for a couple days. Also, new domains can take a couple days to propagate to a new host, especially if the registrar registered the domain with specific nameservers (to their own hosting) by default.

Back on topic - is wcait offering VPS yet? I saw in the first page of this thread (I think?) that you may be considering offering free VPS through certain partners. If not for free, do you offer paid VPS (offshore)?

Server seems to be down? My site was working perfectly but now saying "The page isn't working blaa didn't send any data."

I tested your ips and nameservers and same issue..

"The ns3.wcait-dns.com page isn't working ns3.wcait-dns.com didn't send any data."

Any information on this?

Cheers.

N1l0c - June 24, 2016, 10:07 am

There are currently problems with OVH. We have no power about this issue at the moment.

I'm sorry for this.

No worries, I thought it was something to do with my site haha.

Cheers for the information!

Any idea as to when OVH will finish with their business?

When OVH becomes competent.

OVH is an unstable joke with snooty French staff.

We already moved with half of our servers to a better provider, only the free accounts are hosted there.

MasterSnowball - June 25, 2016, 6:02 am

OVH is not unstable,

Like every other company every once and a while servers, software HARDWARE needs to be updated. I was with OVH for years and only once and a while it did of course went down BUT with plenty of notice. When something major goes down they do take time but thats because they are trying their best to prevent downtime in the future.

Please do remind yourselves that this is a FREE service, if downtime occurs they are not and i mean NOT liable simply to the obvious fact that its FREE. With that said, free or paid.. Everyone has time down here and there.

Again, OVH is really REALLY good. If you are doubting then you clearly never been with OVH for a good amount of months / years.

As for OP. From here, id like to give a big thank you for offering free services as no many do that these days especially with no hidden catch.

Cheers!

You're right, however we made the decission to start hosting a part of our infrastructure with other providers, just to test out how everything works out and of course the economic aspect was important.

But still, we try to provide webhosting with the best quality, no matter if it's free or paid. We work as hard as it would be paid.

Cheers

I had this issue with both of my domain's I tried to use Killyyourself.pw & Payivyhf.pw PM when fixed.

N1I0c - June 26, 2016, 4:33 am

We know this issue but we're not able to fix it until a whmcs update will be released. However we receive all orders and will activate them.

Well, i think something went wrong. Because, when activated service, i got no email which contained nameservers. Could you please tell me the nameserver again?

N1l0c - June 26, 2016, 5:52 am

ns3.wcait-dns.com
ns4.wcait-dns.com

Are the nameservers for the free package.

What datacentre are you using? Canada & Netherlands seem fine

N1l0c - July 1, 2016, 8:35 am

France.

We're back up and everything should run again, however we're improving the security for all costumers at the moment and doing scans if websites are violating our tos.

Thank you for your patience.

This free hosting is nice. Their main site account setup process is easy and self explanatory. Very great service, especially for offering a free package. The paid packages are, no doubt, worth the price. Great management. As a free hosting provider, WeCareAbout.IT is my main competitor, if not the best free hosting on HF right now.

Every server has downtime here and there, as long as it is rare - However, this should only be for major updates, or if a datacenter is making significant upgrades that are worth the downtime. You're customers shouldn't worry - you're offering a pretty nice service here man. Hope nobody's yelling at ya

We're aware of the cpanel license issue you're facing. & we're working on it.

We contacted cPanel to see why our license got suspended. Hope we find a settlement soon with them to return the services back.

Sorry

When I finally try to check out with the free package, I am not able to fill out how long I want the domain, which I think is what is leading to the a page saying "Invalid TLD/Registration Period Supplied for Domain Registration" when I try to check out. If anyone has any knowledge on this please PM. Thank you for your time...

I'm getting Invalid TLD/Registration Period Supplied for Domain Registration error every time I try to register a new plan. Any help?

vFlake - August 3, 2016, 2:20 pm

Also waiting for the Order to get accepted, should I just wait some more or is there any problem?

N110c - August 4, 2016, 2:20 am

We're closing this thread for now. No more orders will be accepted.
