Thread: [\[UK ONLY\] 70% OFF Morrison/Ocado online orders GROCERY/GAMES/ALCOHOL \(BTC/PP\)](#)

NealCaffrey - January 18, 2016, 1:20 am

Bought the method from Reward, he gave me permission to sell orders as it doesn't work for me because they don't deliver to my address and I thought they did. He told me to sell to make my money back as he wasn't giving refunds.

Okay, so I'm selling orders from Morrisons and Ocado. This will only work if they deliver to you, so we will check before we do it.

PM with a postcode and I'll check or go to LINK and check yourself.

You need adblocker off or it won't show you.

Spoiler (Click to View)

The price is 30% of the basket (Upto £150), BTC or Paypal. 50% before the delivery and 50% after. Will go 100% after delivery for members with 70+rep.

I will give away 1 vouch copy to someone trusted. Obviously vouch when it has been delivered.

I know, just thought I'd put morrisons as they both have the same delivery areas. Would tell them about it on skype etc if they wanted it from a different site. Will add it to op.

Well they don't receive the money but they deliver. Using a different name is fine, say you didn't do it. But Reward and many other users had told me they have never had issues. I'd honestly say if you're worried, don't do it. But I've been assured it's fine as he has done it 6+ times to the same address.

I used to do this by buying £200 Tesco vouchers for 10% on Evolution and I would pay with my card then add the vouchers in 10 minutes before midnight and they'd deliver, is this the same sort of thing? The same sort of consequences? If so I'm interested :)

Nope, It's not the same sort of thing. First customer gets a £150 basket for £30.

Still doing this. PM me if anyone wants this.

The Hacker 4chan - January 19, 2016, 9:41 am

Nah, you should stop this service man. Read the Ocado/Morrisons terms, if you don't pay them in 6 months they send debt collectors.

Really? I've been assured by the guy I bought it from he hasn't had any problems. I'll have to read them. If people want to risk it with a fake name (since its my iP etc) they shouldn't be able to do anything. If not, please don't risk it.

Still doing this. Completed an order already and they received it this morning.

Heres the method, if you look hard enough on leakforums you'll find it.

- "1. Get a VCC. It has to have at least £1 on it. Avoid using your real name.
2. Order as much as you want via the Site : <https://groceries.morrisons.com/>
3. Enter your VCC Details at checkout and do not use your real name for delivery. Use your real address or drop, as it really doesnt matter.
4. Enjoy your delivery.

They will call/persue you for 3 months, then send to a debt collector. But as you have not used your real name, they cannot do shit. You simply state no one by that name lives at your address if you have a letter.

Its easy shit and profitable."

Are you Batman?

I hope you're using a secure VPN and have checked for DNS leakage because these companies are so big that they'd rather put the effort in to catch the people doing this than let it continue no matter the cost. A fake name/address won't cut it and if you've actually used your real name or address then more fool you.

Actually you're wrong it's not to catch the person but to fix the issue.
