Thread: Paypal limited my main account. Help

SIM-2998667 - January 19, 2016, 3:11 am

I had 150$ and yesterday i decided to withdraw for the first time since i started Ewhoring.

Today they sent me an email saying they got suspicion and limited my account.

To remove the limit i have to:

- 1) validate my card
- 2) take pictures of my ID card
- 3) validate my home address
- 4) give information of where the money came from

What should i do? I really don't want to lose the money and all of the validation i can do, except im 17, i hope thats okay?

Should i give them what they want?

And what bullshit story about where i got the money from should i give them?

This isn't a PayPal fraud thread, im basically asking if i should do what they say.

if its your personal paypal account, yes, being verified is the best thing you can do.

Call them and ask to be unlimited. If they ask where you got the money from just say it was a gift from your mother.

There are 5 transactions, all 30-40$, would they believe theyre all gifts from my mum?

Then say they're gifts from family members as it was your birthday this week or something.

Holy fuck you're thick as fuck.

The whole point of calling them is so you don't have to send anything in..

That's why you never ewhore paypal as your source of payment processor. How to avoid this happening again? Use amazon gift card as your method, I'll explain more deeply later. But try to follow these steps, but you will have to trick your info, but however I can explain futhur details about this here.

I called them and the woman didn't fix it for me, she basically told me shit i already know.

Now i decided to give them the little information they need which included sending them a picture of my ID, something with my address, validating my bank card and explaining where i got the money from.

The explaining where the money came from is completed and i think they accepted it, my ID and address ia still being processed though.

Some pedos don't use amazon, and don't want to use it, so using only amazon makes you lose a lot. You just need to be careful with paypal

I've had 100s of dollars lost to GayPal, it's the risk we take. GayPal is not a friendly environment for ewhores.

Yeah but the money had been sent to my main account, and my main account has been limited, so hopefully I'll manage to unlimit it.

Why? I only sent the front of the card, and cut off the part where it says 16+, the only indication there is that i might be underage is that my id number ends with 98, but then again i might have had my birthday this year already

Sunquyman - January 20, 2016, 1:17 am

Might be better to take ewhore paypal ---> BTC ---> real paypal in the future... Although PayCore/Paylvy may solve this issue.

Brahma™ - January 20, 2016, 6:09 am

Do not call them at first. Just provide the proofs they are asking for and wait. Call them only if it's needed.

Seller - January 20, 2016, 6:09 am

If you're under 18 you're not even allowed to open a paypal account, so you're pretty much fucked.

Yeah :/ i should probably give up on waiting to get my account unlimited and just close the account to be safe. I think giving them pictures of my ID and address is going to anal me
