Usually more active then this haha.

Contest always seem to get active right before they're about to end.

To be fair, you're giving away one chance at award in exchange for 7 months of advertising, which could be why people aren't entering. Good luck with the contest, I just think maybe if you had like one award a month or something you might get more entrants.

EDIT: That's why! People might think you mean august 2nd, lol

In the USA, we do month/day/year

Look back at my old threads, I do give an award away every 1 month. (For this same contest, which does get active)

I state the timezone also, if people can't read it, then they're retarded.

Doesn't matter if you say it. When you write 8/2/2016 and were trained to read it month/day/year all of our lives obviously it could easily get misread.

And if they skim the title they won't realize it's feb.

Are you being racists bro ? Just because of how I format my dates, because I'm an Aussie ?

Just because I'm Australian and on HF, doesn't make me behave like an American. ?

lol what

I'm just saying you should include the full Month name and day instead of doing 8/2/2016 so that everyone will understand before they click right away thinking this is a half year contest.

All good though. Idc how you run your contest. Just thought I'd give some advice.

Good luck to whoever wins!
