

Forum:Hack Forums

Thread: Are we allowed to sell affiliate products in the marketplace?

Nutar - January 28, 2016, 2:04 pm

Looked at the help documents, but didn't see anything regarding selling affiliate products. So as the title says, are we allowed to these kinds of products in the marketplace? (Non-hackforums products)

Thanks!

Hash G. - January 28, 2016, 2:09 pm

As long as the product meets the current site policy you can sell it.

AsSaSs@iN - January 30, 2016, 5:22 am

Provided the item is permitted to be sold and you also adhere to the marketplace rules, specifically;

All the trades on Hackforums should be made in the Marketplace section, regardless of content.

So no linking to another website for the listing and transaction.

stackoverflowin - January 30, 2016, 6:36 am

(Jan 30, 2016 06:22 AM)AsSaSs@iN Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Provided the item is permitted to be sold and you also adhere to the marketplace rules, specifically;

All the trades on Hackforums should be made in the Marketplace section, regardless of content.

So no linking to another website for the listing and transaction.

Doesn't that just rule out like 99% of HF products who use a payment gateway such as Paylvvy then, lol.

wellager - January 30, 2016, 6:49 am

(Jan 30, 2016 07:36 AM)StackOverlowin Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Doesn't that just rule out like 99% of HF products who use a payment gateway such as Paylvvy then, lol.

Paylvvy is a payment processor, there's a huge difference

Walt Disney™ - January 30, 2016, 4:14 pm

(Jan 30, 2016 06:22 AM)AsSaSs@iN Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Provided the item is permitted to be sold and you also adhere to the marketplace rules, specifically;

All the trades on Hackforums should be made in the Marketplace section, regardless of content.

So no linking to another website for the listing and transaction.

I couldn't say it better.