Thread: Recreating Expired Microsoft Emails \(with screenshots\)

~Adamant - February 1, 2016, 12:28 am

I've seen a lot of people try and sell this method, and I'm not trying to bash them at all, but they can sell to the people who aren't tech savvy enough to do it themselves.

This is a public method, for the record, just not really put into complete perspective. This will be to teach all of you how to do so, and give you a little insight on how to utilize a simple plug in to recreate expired emails.

So to understand this method, you should all know it is impossible to create emails under the live, hotmail, msn, and any other microsoft domain that is not outlook. This method uses a plug in to modify a https request to change the domain.

Step 1; Install Mozilla FireFox.

Step 2; Find the plug in named "Tamper Data," and install it. I will list a screenshot of what you are looking for.

Step 3; Head over to outlook.com to begin checking to see if the email exists.

Step 4; Sign into an email, could be an outlook, or live if you already have one.

Step 5; Go into account settings, your info, and then manage your sign-in email and phone number.

Step 6; Under account aliases, go to add email.

Step 7; Now remember what I was talking about when I said checking the email? You can check to see if a email under a specific domain exists, and if you receive the following message, it clearly doesn't lol.

Step 8; When you're in add email, you will notice it gives you the message to add an outlook email.

Step 9; This is where you need tamper data. By now you should have it installed. By tapping the "alt" key on your keyboard, a task bar will appear at the top of the screen. Under "tools" you will find Tamper Data at the bottom.

Step 10; This should now be your screen.

Step 11; This is where it gets tricky. With the menu open, in the top left of the tamper data window, you will see an option that says "start tamper."

Begin typing random characters into the outlook email, so you can begin to activate the process of adding an email. With tampering beginning, WHILE YOU ARE TAMPERING, AND THE LETTERS ADDED, click ADD ALIAS.

Click on Tamper!

Step 12; You will be prompted with a new window. The bar listed with single domain will contain a bunch of random characters. From there, you will highlight and delete said characters, and replace it with the domain you are trying to recreate (live.com, live.ca, hotmail.co.uk, etc).

Step 13; Click abort on all the random popups, and you should receive this screen! REMEMBER TO STOP TAMPERING WHEN DONE. IF YOU TRY CLICKING AND ADDING AND IT DOESN'T WORK, JUST REFRESH THE PAGE.

Step 14; Add!

I hope this method helps you guys. This is very useful for recovering accounts and what not, or just claiming a cool email! Thanks for your time.

After step 12 do you then press ok? I abort all popups and then stop the tamper. I then selected "Add Alias" and all i got was a message saying "This email address is already an alias on your account"

I'm quite confused so if anybody would mind explaining to me?

No idea if I added it, but said I just don't want people paying for a public method. I'm aware to its age and origin lol.

It's worth noting that some countries do not work with this, it's best to use an American email and the changing the country after you've done the method

~Adamant - February 2, 2016, 7:15 pm

I'm still helping people out with this, if you need an email claimed or having issues, feel free to shoot me a pm. :)

I saw people selling this service in secondary sellers, and I respect the hustle, but it's been public for ages and figured I'd show people how to do it.

BTW, its Adamant lad.

Edit: Got this working, it was fucking up due to my location.

elabasiry - January 24, 2019, 2:35 pm

stopped working in 2019

is there is any new method

marcoeb - August 28, 2019, 4:03 am

It is not working anymore - the following message is displayed in the last step:

"The email address is not valid. Please verify that you have entered the correct information."

Is there any new method that works again?

THANK YOU!

val.jns - March 4, 2020, 2:26 pm

Are there any possibilities for 2020?

I think we all have the problem "The email address is not valid. Please verify that you have entered the correct information."

Thank you!!

Looking for a 2020 fix also
