<http://saiyuki.themis.feralhosting.com/links/books/>

Currently All computer/IT Related, however the majority are 2015/2016.

Such as learning different programming languages, linux, and different things i've found online.

I'll be looking for more and when i do it'll automatically update there.

Edit: I'm Also uploading 70GB~ of instructional videos from pluralsite, lynda.com and CBT-Nuggets, to <http://saiyuki.themis.feralhosting.com/links/videos/> (obtained from usenet); however as i said they're directly obtained from usenet and i haven't checked so if you see one that is not a video format and is an executable(probably isn't any) DO NOT run any. ; any notify me and i'll clean such up. Their uploading as we speak.

Also if any of the ebooks; such as in the microsoft section have no extension just add a .pdf on and they'll run; as i downloaded them with wget from microsofts MSDN's website on my arch linux OS they're showing up as binary files on my OS which just means any file without an extension; however im able to open them with my pdf viewer and they work.

thanks for sharing mate , i will check them out ?

CorrosiveBlueberry - February 2, 2016, 7:49 am

No problem; I can put more up whenever i find anything good. If i get spare time ill try to organize/rename them better. The original uploaders i DL'ed them all seperately from random places, named them real crazily. I've just been busy learning linux

Thanks OP, very nice contribution! Looking into most of these books.

CorrosiveBlueberry - February 2, 2016, 11:22 am

Your welcome; i organized it better now so they are all listed in to categorized folders; haven't renamed anything however it is alot more organized and i was able to add content easily; so i can expand upon it with ease.

No problem & if anyone has any requested subjects i can attempt to acquire as many books as i can on that said subject and upload them there. Just lemme know. It serves me for future learning too.

Currently in the process of uploading batches of 200gb of ebooks from 2014-2015; if they're not easily sortable i'm going to put them in a seperate folder on the website therefore it won't mess up the order of things.

CorrosiveBlueberry - February 25, 2016, 7:40 am

If anyone was having issues accessing them yesterday; as a user PM'd me pointing it out; i had moved things around; as i wanted to simplify things for copying my media to my Home - PC but it broke a symbolic link; i fixed it so everything is working again

In where? I obtained all of these pdf's online, multiple weeks back, and have not modified even one of them; none of them are .exe files; you don't have to download them to view them you can view them directly from the website. If your really concerned you can scan them prior; personally i haven't scanned them, but It's just pdfs i'm not too concerned.
