Thread: First Client Of My New Business - Now A Business Journal

Milhouse - February 3, 2016, 4:51 am

Just got my first client of this new venture I've started. Was a $10 job, kept $7.47 after PP fees and the marketplace's cut, but it's an honest $7.47. No e-whoring, scamming, or anything otherwise illegal or ethically questionable. It took almost two weeks to get going, but I made a few tweaks and here we are.

Going to keep going with this and improve on my marketing and services offered. Also, this can become a lot more money from the same client as I can offer him new services or upgrades to what I did for him.

EDIT: Decided to make this a cool journey for all the major moves that happen as I get this business off the ground. :) Thanks to all my supporters! Really means a lot! :)

Congratulations, it's the first of many. ?
Good luck with your business!

TheVBScripter - February 3, 2016, 4:59 am

Congratulations Milhouse!

I know some members might think that it's "only $7,50", but I have to agree with you that it feels pretty incredible to make 100% legit/white hat/whatever you call it money!

I don't want to know your method or anything, but is there any possibility to scale this up or earn on auto pilot?

Example: CPA/PPI, it's possible to make money on auto pilot and manually, so just curious ?

Hey man, I used to be "blackwolfwins" - I was pissed cause I had bought your ebook and didn't get anywhere. The very next day I ended up getting a guy for $30 AGC in British Pounds. I accidentally redeemed it as I can only spend it on Amazon UK now LOL. The advice you gave me on skype actually worked. But e-whoring is behind me now. Much easier, better and ethical ways of making money.

As far as scaling and autopilot, yea definitely this is all online but I haven't gotten the cash flow and clients to warrant that. And even if I did, the service only takes all of a few minutes to complete. Was literally not even 30 minutes, and only that long cause I had to tweak some things to make everything more HQ and faster next time.

Well done on your first earnings! It may seem small now but if you keep going you'll get there! Just keep working hard and good luck with your future!

SpyGuyz - February 3, 2016, 7:04 am

congrats keep going and good luck

Milhouse - February 8, 2016, 7:56 am

Thanks everyone - I'm still building up my clientele and overall momentum. I've now found my own customer niche as well.

I have absolutely no respect or jealousy of people making money illegally.

However, making $7 legal isn't really cool either. It's actually a disgrace putting those kind of earnings into the bragging rights. Why lower the standards so much? It's almost like you're Bill Gates if you make $1000 when you can brag about making $7.

What I'm trying to say, is, that you should come back once you've actually made some money.

I don't care about your condescending opinion of me. It's cool to ME - all that matters. I'm building a business from the ground up legitimately bootstrapping it from almost no start up money. On a forum full of fake ballers, ewhores and outright scammers, I and others have a difference of opinion from you and see people starting to make honest money a spark of hope to other guys ether afraid to start or still feel that the only way is the "dark side" so to speak.

I'm sitting here, typing with a kid making $7. What's wrong with me.

Anyway.. There's loads of people on HF who makes legitimate money, but also loads making non-legitimate money. It just makes me laugh, that you're sitting here proud of making $7. Like what the fuck? How old are you kid?

And please don't call it a "business" and stop using all those fine terms you are using skiddo. You have a little online service that you make $7 buck on, ffs.. It's so fucking cheesy to read that it hurts my eyes.

It is what is, you don't have to keep reading my posts. YES, I'm proud of this venture I just started. Laugh all you want. In fact, I'll keep updating this thread as I grow for those whom are interested.

Marketing services for other businesses - I really enjoy the work too. I picked up a few clients the other day and more work coming in. I've decided to use the freelancer marketplaces as secondary sources of traffic. Hired a designer to design a bomb ass logo should be done by tomorrow. Also I'm looking at some guys who design animated videos for products/services. Also, I've got some connects for presells to get my company's website design up and going. Moving fast here. I've also since increased the pricing on my services - selling myself really short at $10 for the lowest package especially since I'm moving out of the crowded marketplaces where everyone is looking for the cheapest guy.

Thanks for stopping by :)

$7 is small but what I see is the effort you put into your marketing technique to make this profit and that's what makes this BIG :) Congrats Milhouse!

Not really sure what you do, but sounds like you have a plan.

Hope it works out for you, if you keep trying eventually it will I'm sure ?

I'd say good luck, but luck is for losers, dedication is key :D

You basically "picked up" a few clients? Are you a man slut? hahahaha

And now you hired a designer huh? What did you pay him, $5? Shit kid, you talk like you're running some real business shit but in reality you're on a dick

What's your problem? nothing better to do?

Thanks, man really appreciate it. Gotta put the finishing touches on this plan for this one guy. Also have to shoot some emails out gonna update later on - gotta get to work :)

@Millhouse

No. The way you're talking makes me agree with Spending. And just like Spending I'm finding the posts you're making really funny especially when you're making it sound like you're a corporate pheg who works in a business building in New York CEOing your own marketing firm who just recently hired the top design firm in the state to create your branding.

By the way Milhouse, I want to tell you something. I'm really Nate's speaker for the website Source Digest Blog. I came here as we are getting suspicious traffic from HF and decided to investigate. I wanted to post on the thread where it all started but I can't since HF requires (youknow). Will you be able to help me to make this possible?

On point. This is exactly what I was thinking. Unfortunately English is my 2nd language, so I suck at writing it.

But this shit is so real. It's so fucking cheesy to read.

Go fuck yourself with your $7

Productive day thus far:

- Ordered Debit Card
- Finished some client's plans
- Checked in with my logo designer - still working on it. He's got lots of other orders to push out as well
- Got all my key Social Media accounts established ready for content creation
- Got in contact with this girl who does dope promotional videos - hopefully we'll be able to work something out

I potentially have some free marketing opportunities for my niche market, all with HUGE audiences
- I will update if anything develops.

 Best troll on HF. Almost took you seriously.

 HF logo designs for $3? That would leave you down to $4 of your original 7

 A $5 Fiver gig. I think you're 1 dollar short to pay for that. You'll only have $4 left after buying the logo.

You don't have access to any huge market, because if you had, you'd already have made more than $7 you dumbf.

Last but not least, I can see that you got your "social media accounts established ready for content"
- Wow! You're really working hard out there bro, watch out you don't pass out. Fucking takes 1 min to make an insta, facebook and whatever social media page.
