Hello I just had a question about this problem we have on a new forum.

We want the time to show up there but is there any way to make it so it all fits, like maybe only put the hours, or shorten it somehow? Thanks

What about putting the time below the author?

I'd personally not even have the times on there.

Have you tried just reducing the font size a little bit, or is it too small after that and doesn't look right?

If you want to shorten it you'd have to change the date and time languages. There is a setting for it in the ACP.
