Thread: What are some legal ways to spread Adware?

What are some ways to spread Adware so that it gets installed on thousands of computers legally? The only way I can think of is getting it bundled with a program like CCleaner, but I don't have the money or contacts to do that Just buy some domain like "pcfixerpro.com" and put a page with a download, make the program show some long ass TOS that states all the other programs that will be bundled with it.

Not legal.

@OP the bundled method pretty much is the only legal way.

But, it costs major coin.

What's not legal about that?

The fact you would be bundling it with someone elses software without their legal consent?

If OP wrote their own application, no problem.

I think that's what he means, just make a random software and call it pc cleaner or something then bundle your adware with it.

But how do I get thousands of people to download it?
