I'm working on a sig and thought i'd post the finished product for today (it's 8:30am and i gotta get to bed soon lol)

But here is the imgur link to the album:

Then these are some of the most updated versions:

Let me know which of the 3 most updated versions you like the most! :)

I think the first one is a nicer font. If you make it slightly bigger I think it'll look the best out of the 3. :)

The second one is nice. The third one's text value is being taken away by the random lines, and the first one just looks like you took a stock image and put your name in a Microsoft font on there.

Edit: I didn't realize the link had more. When I'm saying this I'm referencing the ones in the spoiler.

Mehh, don't really like it imo.

i feel all the lines behind the text are unneeded.

also good job blending text into the sig. some people just slap it on and it looks choppy as fuck.

the first sig in the spoiler looks the best but centre the text from the girl to the other side, it's good where it's placed vertically but not horizontally.

2nd one looks best to me, good job on it :).

Rufio - February 7, 2016, 8:19 am

I like the first one.

However I feel you need to ditch the text, especially on the 2nd and 3rd. Honestly it removes the focus away from the actual signature, which I'm sure you planned on the focal point being the girl?

The ones in the spoiler:

First one seems incomplete, maybe larger/different font

I like the second one.

This is a stock image:

this is MS font:

This is neither of the two?

I do appreciate criticism. But I'd like you to explain to me how that is a stock image with ms font on it?

Also, No one likes the custom font I made? :(or the hipster-y lines I made to go with them on the 3rd? ?

I think if you combined the 2nd and 3rd one but with the lines in the bg more subtle it would look great!

Which would you like more if the text could be switched around on either one? I kind of like the perfect square/diamond thing in the middle more on the second one personally. I also added some minor things in the second, I need to make it a little more colorful like the first one though.

Sorry for delay, I agree the perfect square/diamond part on the second one looks good.
