Thread: What are the best methods to quickly level on Steam?

BaiN - February 7, 2016, 6:24 am

Hi, as the title states I'm wondering what are the best methods/techniques to getting a higher level on Steam. Like is there cheap ways to do it or is it expensive.

I tried until Level 20 and used cards but it is expensive not so much but 20 $ you should invest for some levels and the result at all, nothing. You get simply nothing for it just the number with the level in it.

Don't know if you already know.

The most effective way to level up on steam is to put some money in and purchase cards. If you want to do a slow way and you already have cards make a card swap service. For example swapping my card for another of equal value + a card. Just little things that will boost your card count.

You could buy cheaper steam cards from OPSkins.com or you might be able to find sellers which are willing to sell in bulk in the virtual game items.

However if neither of these are possible for you add some funds to wallet and check this out.

I'd suggest not levelling up your profile much, you don't really get anything in return.

Thank you for this insight.

You kind of need to level up brand new profiles if you want to phish/scam or whatever people on steam

Wouldn't be surprised if OP is doing that considering his sig is about spreading

My SIG is about spreading because I had to change it to that to enter a competition on here. I was curious because I wanted a cool looking profile. Don't always jump to conclusions.
