Thread: Need BTC with Paypal Where to Buy?

Seasonal - February 8, 2016, 4:39 am

I'm not wanting to deal on here as it's banned, I just need some links to legit websites that won't get my Paypal screwed over like LocalBitcoin's did.

I can show ID, paypal verified etc. Needing a site that I can get over $2k+ worth.

Try virowox. If you don't want to use localbtc.

Expect 15% rate tho.

Expect 15% rate tho. Personally, I can care less with rate bud. I just rather my Paypal not get limited due to me buying BTC like my last paypal did because of that.

Is your paypal linked to your bank card? If so use Coinbase with your bank account. It's safe and easy to use and is made by the actual bitcoin developers that made bitcoin so it is reliable.

It's linked to my Bank, but I'm wanting to use available balance funds (if that makes sense)

Couldn't you just deposit the funds to your bank and then withdraw them from your bank into coin base.

Need it faster than that though bud.

This is around the amount I get daily due to the company I run sales.

I've never been in that position so I wouldn't know. Sorry I can't help, I normally just do everything through PP.

I heard Coinbase takes your money and makes you wait 5 days before you get your BTC, sounds like a shitty system to me. Specially because the price can fluctuate a lot in that time.

Seasonal - February 8, 2016, 6:03 am

I got a guy that I usually do it with but his daughter is in hospital so he hasn't been on, he normally offered me a 12% rate.

Really hoping I can find something to get BTC with until hes back brian188246 - February 8, 2016, 6:05 am

You're not going to find 2k Bitcoin for your PP anywhere

Why would that be? If I may ask :)

-I have verified paypal.

-Real information on paypal - I have ID, I will gladly show my ID + my face..

So, unsure why I wouldn't find it anywhere. :-)

G^aNNicus - February 8, 2016, 6:08 am

Except independent sellers on localbitcoins, no other site's want to risk these amounts with paypal trades.

If there was a less obvious way for paypal to know what the payment is for via LocalBitcoin I'd gladly keep using it. But after it literally mentioned bitcoin in the payment/invoice or whatever it literally fucked me.

G^aNNicus - February 8, 2016, 6:13 am

Thats another reason why other site's are apprehensive to use paypal.

Chargebacks and breaks TOS of Paypal.

PHANTOM - February 8, 2016, 6:19 am

No way you exchange 2k$ from PP to BTC on some sites

Maybe find some members and buy btc from them at 15% rate

I don't think any sites accept 2k$ or if some sites do it they will request ID verification and shit and it will take time if you have your bank then you can buy from coinbase but it takes a lot too like Evil Bob said

Okay, I'll update my thread what about just around $450 or around $500? You know any sites that'll at-least do that?

Currency - February 8, 2016, 6:33 am

Just go on the site and find out for yourself.

G^aNNicus - February 8, 2016, 6:33 am

This is the safest way to buy bitcoins with paypal.

<https://99bitcoins.com/hack-buying-bitcoins-paypal-instantly-using-circle-us-only/>

Its going to take some time till you receive the card, but then you are good to go.

(Feb 8, 2016 07:33 AM)Currency Wrote: [\[CITE\]](#) Just go on the site and find out for yourself. Because everything on their sites, is to be trusted.

Personal experience is always the best way to know if you are going to be trading safe!

I think one site that one member post here was doing that amounts but need id verification and it take some time (1-2 days I think max)

After that just find some guy here that do exchanges over PM or some guy on skype

BooGod - February 8, 2016, 6:40 am

Don't use coinbase. Its policy is like paypal.

Seasonal - February 8, 2016, 8:41 am

Had a few people contact me in PM trusted exchangers so I contacted them off site and dealt. No longer needing this now, thanks guys!
