Thread: Submitting an HTML form.

44krieger - February 11, 2016, 9:47 am

I am trying to make a small python programm that edits the different inputs of a form and then submits them.

I tried many things using BeautifulSoup and Requests. (Also tried Mechanize, but could not install it properly.)

I could not get anything to work.

Would be awesome if you could make some examples or give me a good reference. I could not find anything that i could understand by googling.

Maybe i am approaching this completely wrong anyway. I am still new to python.

Thanks.

What exactly didn't work? Installation, something Python related, selecting the right form,... ?

If want it super easy I'd have a look at Selenium. It's very easy to use but might be a bit heavyweight if you're going for speed or efficiency at all.
